

'A Man at Peace With Himself'

By ALAN HARVEY
OTTAWA (CP) — They called him the least-liked prime minister since Neville Chamberlain. He was too aloof, too aristocratic.

When he spoke the common tongue — "there ain't gonna be no war" — the effect was embarrassing. It was like a dramatic actor descending to smut.

All that has changed. Prime Minister Macmillan, unpopular a year ago, comes to Ottawa today acclaimed as the West's new leader, supplanting ailing State Secretary Dulles at least temporarily as Allied anchor man in the interminable tug-of-war over Berlin.

Mr. Macmillan's recent 10-

day journey to Russia brought praise from all Canadian political parties. CCF spokesman H. W. Herridge said the British leader was "just the right type of personality" to deal with Russia's Nikita Khrushchev.

In what is likely to be a British election year, Mr. Macmillan's stock has soared from the period early in 1958 when newspapers compared him unfavorably with Chamberlain and opinion polls accorded scant support for the new Conservative leader.

Then, a political opponent described Mr. Macmillan as a "man of mystery," perpetually wearing a mask in public life.

What is he really like, this tall, erect man with the slightly tired expression, the quizzical, hooded eyes and large moustache?

Among colleagues, a common impression is of a man at peace with himself, with a settled philosophy based on deep reading and a sense of history.

There is a story that he read a pocket volume of Homer while lying in No Man's Land after being wounded in the First World War.

His celebrated "unflappability" or reluctance to get excited about day-to-day crises, springs from this detachment.

There is a sign in Downing Street saying "cool, calm deliberation untangles all knots". His wife, Lady Dorothy Macmillan, says that when things get tough the Prime Minister opens a book of Roman or Greek history.

After resignations from his cabinet early last year, he flew off on a world tour, referring calmly to "temporary local difficulties".

Now he is in North America on the last leg of journeys to co-ordinate Allied policy on Germany.

Sixteen days ago 800,000 people lined the streets of Leningrad to see the British Prime Minister in his rented fur hat. Today a few hundred, at most, would catch a glimpse of him in Ottawa.

It can be assumed that Mr. Macmillan, unflappable as ever, won't miss the crowds.

'DOG-DAYS'

Big-eyed-trusting spaniel looks out from behind pound bars, one of many rounded up by SPCA in Oak Bay's "delinquent dog" drive.

CANINE WORLD CLEANUP LAUNCHED

Oak Bay Calm Shattered By New Dogma on Dogdom

By TONY DICKASON
Oak Bay today is in a dog dilemma. The SPCA, which acts as poundkeeper for the municipality, has taken a chunk out of the dog population.

In a surprise "blitz" Tuesday, SPCA wagons prowled municipal streets, popping dogs into the back as fast as they could be wrestled.

One informant said "at least" two carloads of dogs were picked up.

Dogs in Oak Bay have traditionally enjoyed a peace and quiet more in keeping with life on a rambling estate. But goadings of the municipal council to "do something" about dogs chasing cars and cavorting through gardens has brought stricter enforcement of the dog by-law.

Council wrote the SPCA "strongly" recommending that the society lay charges against owners of dogs who allow their pests "to contravene the regulations of the present by-law."

If these charges are laid, the letter said, it would "tend" to reduce the nuisance of dogs baying around boulevards.

Up to 10 a.m. today, seven dog owners had received police summonses. It could cost them a $2.50 fine.

ONTARIO'S DRIVING LAW RULED VALID

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's careless driving law was upheld today by the Ontario Court of Appeal.

A 3-to-2 decision quashed an Ontario Supreme Court judgment of last Dec. 3 that the careless driving section of the provincial Highway Traffic Act infringed on federal rights.

The appeal was launched by the attorney general's department after Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Supreme Court handed down a written judgment which found the careless driving law invalid.

Today's reversal of that decision apparently opens the way for prosecution of an estimated 1,400 careless driving charges. The cases had been adjourned awaiting the appeal ruling.

WIRE BRIEFS

Hike Wheat Acreage
OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian farmers intend to push their wheat acreage this year to 22,744,000 acres, up nine per cent from last year's 20,899,100, the bureau of statistics reported today. This would be the highest wheat acreage since 1956.

IWA Office Wrecked By Axe Men

Guards Escape Through Back Door
GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP)—An unidentified group of men wrecked the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) office at nearby Bishop's Falls early today in the latest incident in an IWA strike against the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company.

Five IWA men, posted in the office as guards, escaped through the back door when the raiders began hacking through the front door with axes. There were no injuries.

The IWA men said the raiders arrived in two cars and a van. The number in the group was estimated at about 20.

They chopped out the windows in the one-storey wooden office buildings, hacked at the outer walls and splintered the front door. A typewriter in the office was smashed by an axe.

RAIDER RECOGNIZED
An IWA man said he recognized one of the raiders as a Grand Falls resident.

The IWA office was first moved to nearby Badger after the windows of the office here were smashed by a crowd escorting the body of Constable William Moss, who was killed in a fight between police and loggers. The office was moved to Bishop's Falls Tuesday.

Today's violence shattered an uneasy calm. The IWA men said they received several anonymous threatening telephone calls Tuesday night. They were set to guard the office to prevent damage, but fled when they realized they were outnumbered.

Bishop's Falls, a town of about 2,500, ten miles from here, is regarded as a stronghold by the IWA. About half the work force are loggers, the other railway employees who support the IWA.

RCMP launched a hunt for the raiders.

The IWA says it is distributing relief cheques for $30 monthly plus grocery vouchers to 1,100 striking loggers in central Newfoundland. The union had 1,200 members when it struck for higher pay and shorter hours Dec. 31.

The union is also distributing them to 1,400 loggers with Bowater's Pulp and Paper Mills in western Newfoundland.

The vouchers provide $5 worth of food weekly for each logger, another $5 worth for wives and $2 worth for each child.

STATE FUNERAL SET FOR SIDNEY SMITH

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith will be buried in his native Nova Scotia.

A state funeral for the 62-year-old diplomat and former University of Toronto president, who collapsed and died Tuesday, will be held Thursday.

The service will be at Chalmers United Church here at 4 p.m., EST (1 p.m., PST). The body will be flown to Windsor, N.S., for burial Friday.

Meanwhile, coroner Dr. Thomas Kendall said Mr. Smith died of "natural causes" following a stroke.

"He was suffering from high blood pressure and apparently was working under very high stress and strain."

Court Ruling On Injunction Still Awaited

VANCOUVER (CP)—No decision had been handed down by noon today on Tuesday's Supreme Court hearing of a dispute between the British Columbia government and its civil servants over picketing rights.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan said late this morning he was still working on his judgment.

He heard more than three hours of argument Tuesday on an ex parte injunction obtained by the government Friday to restrain the civil servants from picketing government buildings.

The B.C. Government Employees' Association is applying to have the injunction set aside.

Mr. Justice Ruttan would give no indication of when he might hand down his decision, which will decide the next moves in a drawn-out dispute between the government and the civil servants over collective bargaining rights. The decision had been expected some time today.

At Tuesday's hearing the government sought to have its interim injunction, granted when the BCGEA called its 11,000 members out on strike Friday, extended until date of trial.

The BCGEA contended the application was for a blanket, indefinite injunction and that there was no intention to take the matter to any trial.

"M. M. MacFarlane, acting for the attorney-general, said his client is prepared to take the matter of legality of the picketing involved to trial 'as soon as my friend wishes to do so.'"

He referred to Thomas Dohm, counsel for the BCGEA.

Gov't Accused of 'Feudal Tactics'

Mr. Dohm, accused the government of "feudalistic" tactics in the dispute.

Counsel for the government countered with a charge that the strike last Friday was illegal.

Mr. Dohm said: "Obtaining a blanket order merely brings about a method of subjugating the government employees... It goes back to feudalistic days."

He contended continuation of the injunction would "do irreparable harm to the association because it removes their only economic arm to show their strength."

Mr. Dohm described the interim injunction as "an extraordinary remedy." He listed three preliminary objections:

The writ for the injunction was issued March 12, the day before the work stoppage.

The writ disclosed no cause of action.

If there was no issue to be tried, the injunction should not be continued.

He said the writ could not have disclosed any cause of action on March 12 because there was no cause of action then.

Cabinet Briefed On Moscow Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan today conveyed his "message from Moscow" to the Canadian cabinet.

After morning talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker, he met cabinet members at a noon session and briefed them on his 10-day visit to Russia.

PM ORDERED TO SLOW DOWN PAPER CLAIMS

TORONTO (UPI)—The Toronto Star said today Prime Minister John Diefenbaker has been ordered to slow down following the death of External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith Tuesday.

The Toronto Telegram said reports of Diefenbaker's having to slacken his pace were denied by the prime minister's office. It said his physician merely suggested he take the afternoon off because he appeared so broken up over Mr. Smith's death.

office: It was 10 above with bright sunshine.

WOMAN WAVES SCARF
In the lobby of the centre block, a woman waved a scarf at Mr. Macmillan hoping the descendant of a Scottish crofter from the Isle of Arran would recognize it as a Ross tartan.

Mr. Macmillan said when he heard of Mr. Smith's death he suggested to Mr. Diefenbaker that the Ottawa visit should be postponed but the Canadian prime minister had thought otherwise and "I'm sure he was right."

There was a "serious purpose" underlying the visit in view of the tension caused by the Berlin crisis.

His first words to Mr. Diefenbaker as he came down the gangway from the aircraft were: "Terrible hour to visit you, isn't it?"

GOING TO WASHINGTON

Mr. Macmillan, heading a 28-member British party, goes to Washington Thursday. This is his third North American visit in 17 months.

The British leader, wearing a dark blue gabardine coat trimmed with Astrakhan fur, commented on the "typically cold Canadian weather" as he went to the Prime Minister's

Huge U.S. Contract To Buy Canadian Gas

DETROIT (AP)—Signing of a contract which will link Michigan Consolidated Gas Company with the vast new gas fields of Western Canada and provide natural gas for upper Michigan was announced today by Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company.

The huge program of pipeline construction and expansion will cost two pipeline companies approximately $95,000,000. About $7,500,000 will be spent by Michigan Wisconsin to construct natural gas pipelines in the upper peninsula of Michigan and large additional sums will be required for the building of gas distribution systems.

Mining experts foresee natural gas as a keystone for expansion of the iron ore industry in the upper peninsula.

The contract announced today provides for the initial importation of approximately 200,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily from Canada by Midwestern Gas Transmission Company and the sale of 158,000,000 cubic feet of this gas to Michigan Wisconsin. Midwestern will purchase the gas from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., which operates a pipeline from Alberta to Eastern Canada.

BRITAIN FINDS NEW WEAPON

LONDON (UPI)—Elvis Presley's singing is enough to drive any seagull to distraction, the ministry of supply reported today.

In fact, it has become the number one weapon in the ministry's drive to get rid of gulls which have become a flying hazard at Staines, near London airport.

A ministry spokesman said it found out about Elvis' effect on seagulls when it sent one of its men to Holland to record the cry of a gull in distress. He took a tape recorder, which had been used to record a children's Christmas party at his home. One of Elvis' records had been a highlight of the party.

When Elvis' voice unexpectedly popped out of the loud-speaker, the gulls took off in a flurry and weren't seen again for 24 hours.

OL' VIC SAYS:

I s'pose stray dogs in Oak Bay are taken t' th' pound sterling.

With th' injunction on, th' civil servants w'd hev bin ticketed if they'd picketed.

Two prime ministers in Ottawa t'day. There's bin times when it w'd hardly hold one.

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Charles Dickens and his fabulous characters seem to be popular this session. Gordon Dowling, the CCF member for Burnaby, told the government it was living in a Micawber-like atmosphere, "always hoping for something to turn up."

CCF Leader Robert Strachan has repeatedly likened Health Minister Eric Martin to "Mr. Scrooge" over his allocations to the Health and Welfare Services, while Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) compares these services to young Oliver Twist, always having to ask for more!

Mr. Dowling, in turn, has been referred to as the modern Alfred Jingle (in Pickwick Papers) because he doesn't know how to stop talking.

As for Pickwick, it will be recalled that when the great man had to listen to a particularly long-winded speech he closed his eyes "as if in an excess of pleasure."

There were many such excesses on the floor of the House Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning. Heads nodded everywhere but none looked so happy about it as Highways Minister Phil Gagliardi and Health Minister Martin.

Their faces seemed to shine with the joy of slumber well-earned.

Through all the rigmarole of passing new bills and voting on estimates, the spirit of the good St. Patrick manifest itself in a rash of green ties matching the green quill pens on the government members' desks.

A true son of Erin, George Massey from Delta wore an imitation shamrock in his button-hole—and there were perky references to new government laws as Irish stew and mulligan.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black had to answer some tricky questions during the passing of estimates for his department, and in a simulated Irish brogue he said: "I called on me and Irish mother tonight and she said: 'Now son, don't you be takin' yer shillelagh with you down to the Parliament or there'll be heads broken this night.'"

So with no shillelagh to protect him, Mr. Black stood up to a battery of questions and criticisms till way past midnight.

Leo Nimsick commended the government on broadening the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act and felt sure it had done so because of repeated needling by the CCF.

He said the government reminded him of a little girl who was very untidy around the home. She changed her ways very quickly after seeing a newspaper headline: "Girls Jailed For Keeping Disorderly House."

British Columbia's beer parlors have always been noted for beer, beer and more beer. But with the passing of a new bill now before the House, they will sell cider as well. "They'll be having dancing girls next," quipped a CCF member.

Two boys from Cowichan Junior High School—Douglas McAdam and John Morton—were guests of CCF Leader Strachan in the legislature during the afternoon.

They were taken on a tour of the Buildings, sat in the public galleries and then had tea in the parliamentary restaurant.

With the end of the session in sight—the House is expected to prorogue Thursday—the public galleries are now almost empty.

There were never more than 11 spectators at any one time during the afternoon and evening.

... DOGDOM

Most of the dogs picked up were checked by their licences and returned to owners, with the warning they might receive a summons.

Oak Bay police said a lot more calls to court are expected to be issued today.

Dogs that couldn't be quickly identified wound up in the Oak Bay section of the municipal pound. There were seven of these, four of which had been liberated by this morning.

The three left, a boxer, setter and crossed-spaniel, were overjoyed at receiving visitors but cooled slightly when the gates didn't unclasp.

It costs $2 to get dogs out of "jail," and if they haven't a licence one must be purchased at that time. In Oak Bay cost is $3 for a spayed female and $5 for unsprayed; males are $3.

The program of dog arrests will be a "continuing one" from now on, SPCA secretary-manager Len Page warned.

UNDER CONTROL

The present bylaw says, in effect, that a dog must be under control of its owner at all times. This means they can't run free.

An amendment to this bylaw was defeated at the last council meeting. It would have made it mandatory for all dogs to be leashed when taking the air away from home.

Some dog owners are barking right back at the SPCA action.

Mrs. John S. Petterson, 1456 Mitchell, whose spaniel was among those picked up, pointed out it was nearly impossible for many elderly dog owners to take their pets walking. "They just can't do it."

Unless a yard is fenced, the dog—to be under master's control at all times as dictated by law—must be tied up.

Then they howl like lost wolves," Mrs. Petterson said. "I'm sure some of the complaining neighbors would love that."

Her spaniel, she explained, is kept in the fenced yard, "but every Tuesday morning the Oak Bay garbage men leave my gate open."

The dog's liberty didn't last long.

One of the drawbacks to home incarceration of dogs, owners state, is that when they do get out "they just go crazy."

Another drawback to enforcing the bylaw is to get the facts across to the dogs.

They are generally sociable animals, owners claim, but haven't boned-up on municipal edicts.

The writ alleged no right that was being impinged and it did not claim for a declaration for abatement of any alleged nuisance.

M. M. McFarlane, counsel for the attorney-general, said the writ was quite proper because it was based on a threatened wrong, namely picketing which did actually take place March 13.

It was not necessary to wait for a wrongful act to take place before asking the court for an injunction.

He said: "The injunction restrains people from watching, besetting or picketing premises occupied by the government and from endeavoring to persuade any person from entering or leaving those premises. This clearly sets out a claim to refrain people from interfering."

He argued the picketing was illegal because:

It had an unlawful purpose and

It was conducted in an unlawful manner.

Its purpose, he said, was to prevent people going into public buildings freely and by reason of the numbers of pickets involved and the issuance of permits to cross picket lines there was intimidation in law.

EXTREME SUFFERING

He read an affidavit by deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace which claimed there would be extreme suffering and the possibility of some deaths if staffs were withdrawn from mental institutions.

The affidavit said there was a danger of an "explosive spread" of staphylococcus infection if the hospitals could not be run properly.

Mr. McFarlane then charged that the civil servants have no legal right to strike.

NO LEGAL RIGHT

"Those people by reason of their relationship to the crown have no legal right to strike and the same principle applies to picketing," he said. "They are in a quite different position from people who are employed in industry."

Mr. Justice Ruttan said the question of the legality or otherwise of the strike was not for him to decide but Mc-

... COURT

Farlane argued it was necessary for the status quo to be maintained until the legality could be determined.

NO WRONGFUL ACTS

Dohm claimed there was no suggestion of any wrongful acts or anything but peaceful picketing. Work permits were issued to members of the association in essential services to save them embarrassment in crossing picket lines and non-members would not require work permits.

There was no suggestion of force being used against non-members going to work but there was evidence that many people went to work in the ordinary way.

Mr. Justice Ruttan: "Are you entitled to consider the results of such picketing in deciding whether it is legal or otherwise?"

Dohm said this would be "purely anticipation" and in his submission the anticipated results were not borne out.

He said he knew of no law whereby government employees could not stop work or strike.

Merged Services Discussed By Three Towns

COURTENAY — Consolidation of certain services in Courtenay, Comox and Royston will be discussed by a committee appointed by Mayor William Moore.

Ald. William Lamb, chairman, and fire commissioner Dr. Bruce Gordon, and recreation commissioner Sidney Williams will study the possibility of combining water, garbage, sewer, recreation, street lighting and other services.

Populations are: Courtenay, 3,350; Comox, 2,400; Royston, 950, adjacent unorganized territory, 4,000.

Government Still Seeking Mental Home Site on V.I.

The B.C. government is still searching for a site for a mental hospital on Vancouver Island. Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said in the legislature Tuesday.

He scolded a former member of the press gallery for reporting plans had been shelved for the new installation.

The minister said he asked at the time how he could proceed with a new hospital unit when there was grave difficulty in obtaining professional staff for existing facilities.

ESQUIMALT SITE

Mr. Black said several sites have been examined but in most cases property values were almost prohibitive. He mentioned an "Esquimalt" site which perhaps would be suitable if drained.

Colquitz Mental Hospital was compared to a dungeon by Cedric Cox (CCF, Burnaby).

"This place in Saanich is the worst I have ever seen and I have visited quite a few. It has a little corridor about four feet wide and the windows are 15 feet up, so the inmates can't see a blade of grass," he stated.

"ANIMALS"

The inmates, he said, were like "a bunch of animals waiting for the slaughter. It is like going back to the caves of prehistoric times. For years they have been promised a new building, but that is as far as it has gone."

He said the building was formerly a jail.

The provincial secretary said Colquitz was not the best in the world, but it was not nearly as bad as some he had seen. He agreed the building had been a jail, and pointed out all but a few of the inmates are classified as criminally insane.

"It houses a type of male patient who has reached a state of mental deterioration where any type of effective cure seems to be beyond the power of human beings."

"Some of the patients are discharged from time to time but it is an extraordinarily small percentage."

Gordon Dowling (CCF, Burnaby) said all mental health facilities are concentrated on the lower mainland and Vancouver Island.

"More attention should be paid to other areas like Trail, Prince Rupert and Kamloops," he said. "They should not have to wait for a travelling clinic."

West Europe Allies Cool Toward U.S. German Plan

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has prepared a tentative draft of a German peace treaty for possible use in a foreign ministers meeting with Russia.

By contrast with Russia's peace treaty proposal of several weeks ago, the U.S. provisions would leave the way open for a sovereign all-German government to forge whatever links it wished with neighboring nations and other countries of the world.

The U.S. document—some officials say it is more a statement of principles than a tentative treaty draft—has been proposed to Britain, France and West Germany for discussion.

ALLIES COOL

The Western European allies were reported today to be cool to the idea of carrying forward plans for a German peace treaty at this time. They apparently feel that under Western conditions for actually negotiating and signing such a pact, the more urgent problems are those involved in reunifying Germany. The United States, officials here said, is not pressing the issue.

But U.S. officials emphasize that the Soviet government obviously intends to raise the question of a peace treaty at a foreign ministers' meeting, and they want the Western powers to be ready to meet it in some way.

FIRST STEP UNITY

Western planning now is based on the idea that the essential first step in solving the problems of Germany is some move toward reunifying the divided country and creating an all-German government.

Western policy planners are talking about the creation of a federation to bring East and West Germany under a single political roof.

Over a period of several years the powers of the central federal government would gradually be increased and the powers of the present East and West German regimes would correspondingly decrease.

One possible way to set up a central administration, now being considered, would be to base it on the German provinces or states, called laender.

There are 10 of these in West Germany and traditionally five in East Germany, where they are no longer recognized.

Smith 'Just Finding Feet'

By ALAN HARVEY
OTTAWA (CP) — Sidney Earle Smith, who did not suddenly in Ottawa Tuesday, was a Cape Breton intellectual pitchforked into politics in his 61st years.

Removed from an academic ivory tower to the post of external affairs minister, he was called on in September, 1957, to fill a giant's shoes—those of internationally respected Lester B. Pearson.

At first the university professor appeared to flounder. He was just finding his feet when he died.

Dr. Smith was a tall, heavily built, genial man whose clothes were often rumpled and whose greeting was always friendly. He liked people and spoke with enthusiasm of whatever absorbed his current interest.

He came to the East Block with a tall reputation as administrator of the University of Toronto—largest in the Commonwealth. In his 13 years at Toronto and before that as president of the University of Manitoba, he became well known in university circles.

When Prime Minister Diefenbaker asked him to fill the vacant external affairs post, many thought the prime minister had made a shrewd choice for a key portfolio.

But his years as an educationist had produced few pronouncements on foreign affairs.

In office, he seemed at first to disappoint his admirers.

Some observers detected a tendency for Mr. Diefenbaker to dominate the department, just as some said—former prime minister Sir Anthony Eden of Britain "breathed down the neck" of Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Colleagues in the department said Dr. Smith was a "slow assimilated," but that he was beginning to get a solid grip on affairs in the last six months or so.

He showed greater assurance at recent meetings of the Commons external affairs committee. Some commentators had favorable things to say about his February 26 Commons speech, reviewing world events.

Before accepting the external affairs post, he had often been mentioned as a possible leader of the Progressive Conservative party. But he said he wasn't interested. He had a flair for salty phrases. He said once that a university president "must be a ball of fire by day and a bag of gas by night."

He told his students to have "gravel in your gizzards."

He was a heavy smoker, seldom seen on informal occasions without pipe or cigarette. He gained a reputation as a witty after-dinner speaker.

IKE SIGNS HAWAII INTO STATEHOOD

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower today signed into law legislation to make Hawaii the 50th state.

Actual admission of the island territory to the union is not expected to take place officially until fall.

'MENTAL BLOCK'

Illiterate Boy Reached Grade Seven

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fred Gatenby, an 18-year-old illiterate who was sentenced Monday to three years in penitentiary on 53 charges of breaking and entering, reached Grade Seven in school without learning to read or write.

The boy's mother said Tuesday that her son "just decided when he was about seven or eight that he was not going to learn to read or write."

"He failed Grade One in a Vancouver school, then, because he was big for his age, he was advanced to Grade Three (in a Burnaby school). . . . This created his mental block."

PLAYED TRUANT

The mother said teachers "had no time for him" and he learned bad study habits but was advanced anyway. He spent a year in Boys' Industrial School at 14, then was put in Grade Seven. He played truant for a month, then quit.

Burnaby School Superintendent C. J. Frederickson said the story sounded "absurd" to him.

"It was possible three years ago, but we have special classes now for backward or retarded children," he said. "But I would ask you, could you keep a boy of 15 in Grade One until he learned to read and write?"

LET'S DO IT OURSELVES

Tory Chief Blasts Wren-Gren Scheme

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Deane Finlayson, British Columbia Progressive Conservative leader, Tuesday night urged that development of Peace River power should be carried out by British Columbia Power Commission or the B.C. Electric.

Speaking to a party meeting here, Mr. Finlayson said introduction of Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren contributed nothing that B.C. could not be doing for itself.

"We in British Columbia should make full use of our own mental, physical and financial resources to do the things that have to be done here. That's the kind of leadership we should demand from the B.C. government."

"We did not need anyone from Sweden to come here and tell us there was water in the Peace River."

The Progressive Conservative leader said development of Peace River power depended on securing markets in the lower mainland where the concentration of population and industry is heaviest.

Mr. Finlayson said the lower mainland would not be prepared to buy power if they had to pay "millions of dollars in promotion fees" to Wenner-Gren interests.

Premier Bennett said Wenner-Gren was coming into B.C. as a philanthropist, said Mr. Finlayson. In that case he should confine his activities to development of mineral and forest resources and there is no justification for him to enter the power business when he had no guarantee of sufficient customers.

TRIBUTES TO MINISTER

'He Was Happy, Whole-Souled, Generous Man'

By The Canadian Press

Leading statesmen and educationists in Canada and abroad have contributed to the flood of posthumous tributes to the Hon. Sidney Smith.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, announcing Mr. Smith's sudden death to the Commons Tuesday, said that in 18 months as external affairs minister Mr. Smith had "discharged his international responsibilities with great capacity."

"Indeed, all over the free world today, the leaders of free countries join together in expressing their appreciation of that service which he gave so selflessly and so devotedly."

Opposition Leader Pearson, former Liberal external affairs minister, said Mr. Smith was "a man who served his country all the days of his life; as a soldier, a teacher, a university president and a minister."

'Great Loss to Canada'—Dulles

Henry Cabot Lodge, chief United States UN delegate, said that through close association with Mr. Smith "I came to appreciate vividly the scope of his contributions to Canada, to the free world and to the cause of peace. He will be sorely missed."

U.S. State Secretary Dulles expressed his profound shock and personal sadness at Mr. Smith's death, which "represents a distressing loss to Canada and to all those with whom he came in contact."

Prime Minister Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain, who arrived in Ottawa today and had planned to discuss the Berlin situation with Mr. Smith, as well as Mr. Diefenbaker and other officials, both paid tribute to him before leaving London.

Mr. Macmillan said in an advance message to Mr. Diefenbaker that he was "deeply distressed" at the loss, and Mr. Lloyd said Canada "has lost a distinguished public servant and I have lost a trusted colleague and friend."

Dr. Claude T. Bissell, who succeeded Mr. Smith as president of the University of Toronto, said that "in the fullest sense he gave his life for his country. He inspired both admiration and affection. He was great both as a person and as a public servant."

Davidson Dunton, president of Carleton University in Ottawa, said "a wonderful warm person has gone from Canada."

His contributions to higher education were great, going far beyond his own universities, and his interest stayed warm and alive after he joined the government."

Firing Squad Kills Top Cuban Jurist

HAVANA (AP) — Firing squads shot a former high-ranking judge and two men who served in Fulgencio Batista's armed forces Tuesday, raising to 426 the unofficial total of executions since Fidel Castro's revolution triumphed Jan. 1.

Aristides Perez Andreau, a veteran of 36 years on the Cuban bench, died at Pinar del Rio, in western Cuba. An ex-soldier and a former seaman were executed at Santiago, in the east.

Perez Andreau had been charged with collaborating with Maj. Esteban Ventura, fugitive former national police official whom the revolutionary government calls "the torturer of the Batista regime." Cuba seeks Ventura's extradition from the Dominican Republic.

Africa Death Toll Now 45

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters) — A bill permanently banning the African National Congress in Southern Rhodesia was a step closer to becoming law today as the death toll in anti-white clashes climbed to 45 in neighboring Nyasaland.

The government bill passed reading in Parliament Tuesday night with the support of the main opposition party.

But one opposition member, bitterly attacking the bill's encroachment of individual liberty, won a basic concession on one of its more controversial points.

Justice Minister Reginald Knight agreed to drop a clause which presumed the guilt of alleged officers or members of an unlawful organization until they themselves proved their innocence.

Another bill amending the Native Affairs Act—provides fines or prison terms for African convicted of "contemptuous behavior" or insolence to government officers.

Newfoundland

MR. DIFENBAKER'S refusal to interfere directly in the Newfoundland strike can be criticized on one point only.

While labor policy in any province is strictly the business of that province and not of the national government, the Prime Minister says that Premier Smallwood has exceeded his powers.

In what respect? Mr. Diefenbaker does not say (at least in the news reports of his statement to Parliament.) But assuming that Mr. Smallwood has overreached the jurisdiction of his Government, he has invaded federal jurisdiction. And if he has done so it is Mr. Diefenbaker's duty to preserve that jurisdiction.

In the present circumstances three courses were open to Mr. Diefenbaker. He could disallow the Newfoundland legislation which is designed to break two labor unions. Or, if there is any doubt about the legality of the legislation, it could be referred to the Supreme Court of Canada for an opinion, as has been done often in the past. Or, as suggested by the Smallwood Government and the Canadian Labor Congress, he could appoint a royal commission to investigate the whole dispute.

Mr. Diefenbaker is following none of these courses. He prefers to do nothing but express an opinion. His statement condemns the Newfoundland legislation which decertifies the International Woodworkers of America. Rightly, we think, he says that this statute will foment labor trouble, as it certainly will, especially in the great timber industry of British Columbia.

Mr. Pearson agrees on that score with Mr. Diefenbaker, even though this view has caused a breach between him and his followers in Newfoundland, including his powerful lieutenant, Mr. Pickersgill. The Newfoundland Liberals in Parliament are backing Mr. Smallwood without reservation.

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson undoubtedly are correct in condemning the Newfoundland Premier for using the law to smash a union and the bargaining agent of the workers' free choice.

To be sure, Mr. Smallwood has strong arguments against the activities of the IWA which, he believes, will endanger the timber industry. But if this is entirely Newfoundland's business and must not be infringed by the national Government so long as it remains legal, nevertheless it violates a principle accepted in all other provinces—the principle that workers can choose their own unions. Therefore the national party leaders have a perfect right to express an opinion on Newfoundland's actions.

The case of the Teamsters Union, it should be noted, is quite different and has not been questioned, so far, in Parliament. Mr. Smallwood is on much firmer ground when he resists a union some of whose leaders are convicted of various crimes. No such charge has ever been leveled at the leaders of the IWA.

Mr. Diefenbaker is also right, we believe, in refusing to use the Royal Canadian Mounted Police as a weapon to break a strike and a union. Nothing could be better calculated to undermine the confidence of the working people in a fine national force than to involve it in bitter political controversy.

Nevertheless a difficult question of law arises. Mr. Smallwood says that under Newfoundland's contract with the Federal Government the latter is bound to supply all the police needed in an emergency whenever the provincial Government asks for this assistance. Accordingly, the provincial Government is suing the Federal Government for breach of contract.

Commissioner L. H. Nicholson, the able head of the RCMP, has resigned because he feels that the contract was broken and for his act of courage he deserves the highest credit. So does Mr. Fulton for his determination to protect the position of the RCMP in the nation's confidence.

However the courts may rule on Mr. Smallwood's suit, it raises more than legal questions. When provincial governments have the full responsibility of enforcing the law, and when they depend on the RCMP for this purpose surely they must decide how many police officers they need at any given time.

Mr. Fulton, with the best of intentions, has denied this right of decision to one province. He could deny it to others at will. Where does this leave a provincial government faced, in its own judgment, with a law-enforcement crisis? Obviously the police contracts between the provinces and the Federal Government need re-definition now that Newfoundland has defined it in one way and the Federal Government in another.

All these events in Newfoundland would seem to compel a royal commission inquiry but Mr. Diefenbaker apparently does not wish to involve his Government, even indirectly, in any political embarrassment. Mr. Pearson shows more courage. Not only does he reject the views of his Newfoundland supporters in Parliament but favors a royal commission though its results might further embarrass the Liberal Party.

Mr. Diefenbaker's rather weak answer is to propose a cooling-off period in Newfoundland. This is indeed desirable but it seems more likely that the labor situation throughout the nation will be heated up by Mr. Smallwood's activities.

Dr. Sidney Smith

DR. SIDNEY SMITH WAS A man who literally gave his life in the service of his country.

On two occasions he had declined to leave his career as an eminent university administrator to enter the realm of government. When he finally responded to the urgent request of Prime Minister Diefenbaker to take the post of Minister of External Affairs, he did so at the sacrifice of his career in higher education. The exigencies of his new work exacted from him even more—the supreme sacrifice.

Whether on a platform or at his executive's desk, Dr. Smith mixed wit and charm with high scholarship. As one of Canada's youngest university presidents he soon demonstrated administrative qualities that called him to more prominent positions.

He took little part in political life, although he was twice mentioned as a possible leader for the Conservative Party. His essential honesty was such that when he assumed his portfolio, for instance, he did not hesitate publicly to agree with his predecessor's Suez policy. Dr. Smith was a Canadian, first and last, and he never let that fact become obscured. His loss will be felt in all segments of the nation.

Firm, But Ready to Talk

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S Monday night address to his people makes plain that he has relinquished not one iota of his determination to stand firm on the Berlin issue. But he declared that he is willing to negotiate at the summit under certain conditions.

There was no concession to Mr. Khrushchev's demand that the West evacuate their troops from West Berlin. But there was an appreciable bend in the direction of that portion of U.S. opinion which is understandably hesitant about a policy of deterrence based on a global nuclear war.

Mr. Eisenhower says he will not abandon two million West German citizens to Communist pressure in order to maintain peace. He feels that the best assurance of peace when Communism threatens force is to make that threat too risky and costly to carry out.

The answer to Mr. Khrushchev's ultimatum on Berlin was therefore to insist that the international agreements on Western access to that city be honored and to make it plain that the United States is ready to fight to preserve its rights. Withdrawal under threat could only be the first of many successive submissions.

But a war is not the only alternative. Mr. Khrushchev has indicated as a result of Prime Minister Macmillan's visit to Moscow, that he is willing to support a foreign ministers' conference. This was the condition upon which the United States insisted before any meeting of leaders could take place. The success of a summit meeting must be prepared at a lower level, since a failure in the highest court of appeal would leave the situation much worse than before.

On this basis, Mr. Eisenhower can now meet with his colleagues, and the Communist leader. Berlin emerges as the most critical testing ground for international diplomacy since 1939. It is doubtful if Mr. Khrushchev is prepared to destroy the world in an attempt to achieve his ambitions. In any case he has had a straight answer to his threat. He has tested the fences at Berlin and found them unyielding to force but amenable to reason.

"Gentlemen . . . I propose an entirely new committee to steer the sub-committee in its task of assisting the regional planning committee to analyze the work of this committee . . . or let me put it this way . . ."

THE UNQUOTABLE QUOTES

By B. A. TOBIN

Hecklers and Voices Off-Stage

ONE of the most overlooked and least developed aspects of reporting is that dealing, not with the speaker of the evening, or he-whom-we-have-with-us today, or even our most distinguished guest, but with the anonymous voices which are heard from the back rows, the top balcony, the unidentified obscurity of the man-swarm. Yet these are the voices which in many cases contribute to the success of the evening, adding just that touch of affirmation and corroboration which the faltering speaker so obviously needs, or tumbling with one apt word or phrase the towering structure of rhetoric so laboriously built throughout the address.

Such unofficial interjections go largely unreported. Often they are not audible at the press table, sometimes they may be unprintable for other reasons than inaudibility, and frequently remarks from other parts of the audience combine to lose them in the hubbub.

The Parliamentary reporters of Hansard get around the difficulty by resorting to a stylized form. They report the speakers and questioners verbatim. But other vocal reactions are summarized under the term—"Some Hon. Members: Oh."

Occasionally, in a spirit of literary adventure, Hansard may elaborate—"Some Hon. Members: Order." Or even—"Some Hon. Members: Shame!"

Restricted Style

But such verbosity is rare, and is probably confined to those Parliamentary reporters who secretly aspire some day to write the Great Canadian Novel, or perhaps are working on a CBC play and are swept away by the sheer drama of the House debates.

In any case, just plain "Oh" covers a multitude of sins, and perhaps itself is a serious sin of omission.

Twenty members rise to their feet in howling rage, shake their fists, surge into the central aisle screaming curses at their foes opposite. Says the imperious Hansard reporter—"Some Hon. Members: Oh."

A master of witty repartee and droll stories engages the attention of the House, sets ministers and backbenchers shrieking helplessly with laughter which is summed up graphically with—"Some Hon. Members: Oh."

A masterly address delivered by some speaker beloved on both sides of the House wins an ovation. The House rises to its feet in tribute, applauding to the rafters, shouting and cheering. Says Hansard—"Some Hon. Members: Oh."

Or take a hot debate which has all parts of the House getting into the fight. The questions come faster than the answers and for a moment it looks as though Mr. Speaker has lost control of the Chamber. The noise increases, tempers rise, and here and there a voice can be distinguished: "Yer a liar!" "You swine!" "I never!" "That's rotten!" "You bum!"

Next day the shameful incident is printed in Hansard for all the world to see—"Some Hon. Members: Oh."

Between the Lines

The very austerity of such reporting contains a danger. To the uninitiated it presents Parliament in a restrained and dignified light. But those who know what can lie behind that meek description may read into it much more than they should.

In the days when penny dreadfuls hid the horrors of profanity from youthful eyes with a series of blanks to match the unwritten words, the villain could safely call the hero a—

And each young reader, whether up in attic, hidden behind barn, snuggled under bed covers or ensconced in the old apple tree, would perseveringly try to fill in the blanks with suitable terms. Many a time, no doubt, the villain was made to look much worse than he deserved, as over-enthusiastic young readers put into his blank-filled mouth sentiments from which even he might recoil.

So with Hansard: The veteran reader, knowing the significance of that simple "Oh" might well ascribe to it meanings far beyond the original intent of the Hon. Member, and an Hon. Member who really did say "Oh" in all purity and innocence, could easily be blamed for violent retorts which would never have occurred to his spotless mind.

The Russians, by all accounts, go much farther than Hansard. But they are on safe ground since only favorable interruptions are noted—indeed, only favorable interruptions occur.

Thus the official accounts of Mr. Khrushchev's speeches are punctuated with such descriptive asides as "Animation," "Animation in the Hall," or "Animation, Applause."

A witty sally by the leader brings the reaction, "Laughter in the Hall." A fiery denunciation of foreign imperialist warmongers, or of last year's discarded Soviet hero, brings "Stormy Applause." And the end of each oration is appropriately saluted by what is described as "Stormy, Prolonged Applause."

There is much to commend this system, and it must be admitted that it gives considerable scope to the editors who prepare the speech for publication.

Suppose the joke fell flat and nobody got the point. Is there any objection to slipping in a modest "Laughter in the Hall," just to beef it up a little for the reader? And would any good comrade object if mere applause at a critical point in the address—perhaps announcement of another cut in the potato ration—was upped to "Stormy Applause" in order to set just the right note of approval?

Yes, the Russian method appears to have many advantages, and it may survive to the day when the reporters can record, "Stormy, Prolonged, And At Long Last Obviously Sincere Applause." But it is difficult to say at this moment just who the speaker will be.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Peest! It's ME, MARGARET! IS MR. WILSON STILL LOOKIN' FOR ME?

Outrageous Piece of Piracy

One of the most splendid of London's characteristics is the enormous areas in it given over to grass and water, flowers and birds and trees. Like most other agreeable characteristics of London, it wasn't planned that way; it just happened.

In the case of the Royal Parks, it happened because Henry VIII was a tyrant. Up to his time, the parks were hunting forests with their own farmers and graziers, most of whom were tenants of the church.

When Henry decided to break the power of the church and confiscate its wealth, he enclosed the parks as his own private property, and this outrageous piece of piracy has kept them free and green ever since.

ORDERLY PROVISION FOR RESIDENCES

The Master Plan Furnishes a Design for Growth

(Third of five articles)
A HUNDRED years ago, when Lieut. Charles William Wilson of the Royal Engineers sketched one of the 20 unmarried young women, in Victoria home from a Christmas Eve dance and ploughed through mud up to his knees to do it—a venture some man could walk a relatively short distance from the fort and build his house. There was lots of room, little regulation. The sanitary conveniences may have been primitive, but they were acceptable.

Stott

Now a much less venturesome man cannot even walk through the woods he knew as a boy because in many cases, the woods aren't there any more. They're improved subdivisions. He is lucky if he can find a spot where he wants to build a house and can afford to pay for it.

In less than 20 years hence his difficulties will have increased. He'll be competing for accommodation with another 60,000 people who want to locate somewhere in the Greater Victoria region or north of it.

The Capital Region Planning Board, unable to change the early history of land use, recognizes the problems of shelter looming in the future and offers proposals to meet the inevitable.

By 1976, says the board, 16,900 new units will be required, bringing the total for the region to 55,800.

"The orderly provision of land for residential purposes is a cornerstone of the plan," say its authors. "The location of new housing and the number of dwellings or people per acre is a basic consideration in determining correctly balanced residential area needs for main roads, schools, parks, shopping centres, municipal services, zoning and subdivision control."

The planners note two aspects of recent housing trends in the metropolitan area. "The first is the scattered fringe development, or sprawl; the second is the trend towards apartment living."

The planners' chief headache is sprawl. The creation of random small lot housing subdivision, according to the report, "is rapidly approaching the condition that will make it extremely difficult and costly to provide a satisfactory road pattern, correctly spaced and well-sited schools, parks and shopping centres."

There is nothing right about sprawl

—and it costs too much, they say.

"Municipal policies are needed on public works programs, on the planning of residential areas, on zoning and subdivision control, which will direct the forces that have occasioned sprawl, into more satisfactory region building activities," the report states.

Expansion must come through compact, well-served residential development, one link of urban settlement following another, not higgledy-piggledy, by whim. And it must be plotted on the framework of a detailed area plan which gives coherence and cohesion to growth.

Note is taken by the planners of the increase in apartment living. In 1941 only 14.1 per cent of all housing units were apartments. By 1956 the percentage had risen to 19.6 and by 1976 will reach 24.

This could be attributed to several factors. Since a large percentage of our population is in the older retired class, many of our people do not want, or cannot cope with, the work of maintaining a house and yard. Moreover, apartments conserve ground space, which is becoming scarcer. And with the advent of more national commercial interests with offices here, a larger temporary population is growing up in the town.

As Our Readers See It

Diatribes With Apology

Can it be the forgetfulness of old age—or has the Times editor been subjected to the blandishments of the Government?

When the civil service pay raise was announced the Times editorial section was pleased but exhorted Mr. Bennett to lose no time in publishing the Carrothers Report and thus avert a strike—a strike which, the editor says with unctious, is unthinkable, a report which, the editor says with equal unctious, should be made available to the civil service without delay.

However, that was the beginning of the week. By Friday night the poor senile Times editor has forgotten any reason for strike. Indeed, although his paper has faithfully reported all week the association's views, he finds himself unable to understand the facts. The report has slipped from the editor's facile mind and he now finds himself congratulating Mr. Bennett (willingly?) on securing an injunction from the courts!

This, mark you, in the same issue of the Times that reports Mr. Bonner applying for the injunction two days before the strike. In other words the Government did not want to avert a strike. They wanted to quell it. Well, after all, a rich province like this should be able to afford the luxury of a civil service strike once in a while. Two days before the strike the Government was not negotiating. They were not listening, with the injunction stuffed in their ears! One day before the strike they were assuring Mr. Strachan that management would never (well hardly ever!) take advantage of labor if the terms of the new labor bill gave them the driver's seat. I hope Mr. Strachan is observing how impartial Governmental management is being at this time.

Although the lack of integrity of the Government was well known to the Times early in the week (and, indeed, has provided them with many an editorial), by Friday 13th, the editor finds "little meaning and less sense" in the phrase "the integrity of the Government."

Now we have had a strike not, says the Times sanctimoniously, against the Government, but against the people. The inference being, one assumes, that the thousands of civil servants are not people.

Perhaps, if this has clarified the situation for the poor confused Times editor, he will help the civil service find a "negotiating table" at which Mr. Bennett will condescend to appear. They have had a wand ad in for such a table for two years now.

By the way — It should be large enough to accommodate the Carrothers Report.

I must apologize for the length of this diatribe, but I would like the editor to retain these facts for at least a week.

Flying Fishboats?

NEW YORK—The UN Food and Agriculture Organization forces the day when jet-propelled fishing craft may land at inland centres delivering fresh catches they have harvested in airborne fishing operation.

This type of space age fishing operation along with less spectacular topics will be discussed at one of the United Nations more unusual conferences—a conference on how to build a better fishing boat.

It seems that until recent years most fishing vessels were built by rule of thumb methods some times following traditions handed down from past centuries. The industry, however, had become a world-raging operation often involving boats worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The sea was more and more being looked to as a major source of food for the hungry world. There was a need for better equipment to harvest the catch.

The result was the first World Fishing Boat Congress held by the UN Food and Agriculture Organization in Rome in 1953. The results of this conference were so spectacular that another has been called. The FAO announcement says that Canada will be represented by a strong delegation and will present some of the major papers.

The West Coast Canadian industry has long been recognized as one of the most progressive in the world and, in more recent years, important research has been done on the East Coast where, to the sorrow of almost everyone, the Grand Banks schooner has been replaced by less beautiful but more efficient power boats.

Before the 1953 congress, fishing boat design and construction was not considered worthy of the attention of the world's colleges and universities teaching naval architecture. Tank testing was rare. Since then testing has been carried out in the United States, United Kingdom, Norway, Sweden, The Netherlands, Japan, Turkey, India and elsewhere. Fishing boat design has been added to the curriculum of several institutions.

On the question of hull design, the prospectus prepared for the congress contains one rather alarming paragraph. Under the heading "stability," the paper says that more and more fish boat skippers and builders have become aware that "a boat with low initial stability has agreeable falling motions in a sea-way."

In other words, a boat, which rolls easily is preferable to a "stiff" boat with a "snap roll." It seems that this idea however, has been carried a bit too far. "United States tuna clippers operating in the Pacific far off Central and South America, and European super-trawlers operating in the Arctic regions, already have been given such low stability that a number of them have been lost," says the prospectus. The boats simply rolled over and died.

Jet-propelled fishing, craft will also be discussed. The prospectus notes that several trawlers using turbo-jet gas turbines are now in operation.

Looking to the future the prospectus becomes truly visionary.

The time may not be far ahead when the first atomic powered fishing craft will operate, the authors say. It might even be possible to send large factory ships to the fishing ground manned by a skeleton crew and when needed send out the main working crew by supersonic planes. The fishing craft of the future might even be airborne with adjustable jets to keep them stationary or at low speed when fishing, and then flying direct with their catch to consumption centres far inland.

The day may come when Grand Bankers will be coming alongside to discharge their catches at Montreal and Winnipeg. But this could cause complications. Imagine the confusion on airways when a Newfoundland skipper calls up Dorval with a message like "stay where yer at and I'll come where yer to."

Manitoba CCF Back Liberals

WINNIPEG (CP)—The second want-of-confidence motion to face the minority Progressive-Conservative government of Manitoba was moved Tuesday by the CCF, which criticized Premier Duff Roblin's administration for dragging its feet on health insurance.

The motion by CCF leader Lloyd Stinson expressed regret at the "failure of the government to take the initiative in promoting a comprehensive federal-provincial health insurance plan."

The CCF proposed no change in a Liberal-Progressive non-confidence motion already before the Legislature, which accuses the government of failure to promote Manitoba's best interests in federal-provincial financial relations and of failure to support the recent farm march to Ottawa.

The Liberal motion is an amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, and the CCF motion a sub-amendment.

The fact that Mr. Stinson devoted much of his speech to criticizing the government on points covered in the Liberal motion and that his motion only added another criticism, appeared to indicate that the CCF will support the Liberal want-of-confidence motion when it comes to a vote. The

Russians Building New Television Link

VIENNA (AP)—The Russians are planning a television network linking East Europe's Communist capitals with Moscow. The Hungarian news agency MTI said work has started on relay towers to bring Soviet programs to Budapest. TV relays also will connect Moscow with Warsaw, Prague, and the capitals of Romania and Bulgaria.

Enumeration Of Voters Under Fire

The B.C. government was asked Tuesday night to revise the system of enumerating voters in future provincial elections.

CCF Leader Robert Strachan asked Provincial Secretary Wesley Black if a new voters' list would be issued before the next provincial election.

Gedric Cox (CCF, Burnaby) and Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo, Slocan) suggested the B.C. government should have enumerating lists prepared just before every provincial election, as does the federal government.

Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) described the Election Act provisions as a "schmizzle."

Mr. Black said he would take the matter under consideration.

YOU MAY HAVE WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tingling rectal itch are common signs of Pin-Worms or Round-Worms. . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of these ugly pests, they must be killed in the intestines where they live and multiply. And clinical tests have proved that JAYNE'S Liquid Vermifuge kills both Pin-Worms and Round-Worms quickly and easily. Then they are expelled from the system as a normal mass and you are free of them.

JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE has a pleasant, fruity taste. Children love it—take it without fuss or fret. Remember, Pin-Worms and Round-Worms are highly contagious and can spread through the whole family.

So, at the first sign of worms, be sure to ask your druggist for JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Smoking Hurts Baby

LONDON—Short takes . . . Novelty at Britain's annual Toy Fair, where retailers see what's planned for next Christmas: kids' modeling clay that is edible (vanilla flavored). This has been long overdue. Toddlers eat the stuff anyway — might as well make it palatable.

Novelty at the Leather Fair: The leather industry has at last caught up with Britain's devalued money. Traditionally a wallet in Britain had divisions only for 10-shilling and £1 notes, the unpopular white £5 note being so little used that wallet space was never provided for it. But now the new colored £5 note (slightly bigger than a £1 note) has been taken up by the public and wallet-makers have now given it its own compartment.

Not content with diving into the link between smoking and lung cancer, a Birmingham University research worker has been studying the possible effect of smoking on pregnancy.

He has quizzed 2,000 women in maternity hospitals and come to this conclusion: if an expectant mother continues smoking her baby will be just on half a pound lighter at birth than those of the mothers who give up the habit.

Considering the average weight of babies is 7½ pounds, he says, that's a big weight difference. He concludes that smoking affects the exchange of food between the mother and child.

Cricket fans here are unhappy at the news that they may not see young Norman O'Neill when the next Australian team tours this country in 1961. Twenty-one-year-old O'Neill is regarded as "the new Don Bradman."

Idol of the Aussie crowds, he can double the gate when it's known he's going in to bat, and during England's just finished tour of Australia he smacked the cream of the English bowlers all over the place.

But now it looks as though he's going to be lost to baseball and in the coming years you are likely to have more chance of seeing him in action than we will. He reports for spring training with the New York Yankees next month. What the Yankees' long-distance scouts like about him is not so much his smiting but his fielding. His specialty: landing a 90-yard throw right smack into the gloves of the waiting wicket-keeper.

After a closure during the summer months last year and desperate efforts to keep going this winter, London's "Met" is definitely doomed for extinction. No opera house, like New York's Met, the Metropolitan Theatre on Edgware road is one of the last two of London's old-fashioned music halls, main feature of which was that you could watch vaudeville while leaning up against the theatre bar.

Only Brass Hats Rate In Civil Defence—MLA

Premier Bennett called for "no scare headlines" Monday after George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria) termed the B.C. $227,472 expenditure for civil defence "nothing better than a farce."

If the present civil defence organization is not doing a good job, it is because it does not have sufficient public support, the premier said.

The exchange took place during a debate in the legislature over expenditures for civil defence.

Mr. Gregory suggested the money could be saved "without weakening our defence position, one bit."

Except for four practice occasions in four years, outside of regular day working hours, there "was no way we could have received word or given warning of an attack," said Mr. Gregory.

Control centres are not manned at night.

WASTE OF TIME

He suggested that turning out a staff during the day and attempting mock evacuations to a cushion area where there "isn't even a can of bears" is a waste of time and money.

"It is nothing better than a farce."

He proposed the provincial secretary should perhaps name his deputy minister, L. J. Wallace, to head civil defence because of the fine organizational job he did as centennial committee chairman.

"But that wouldn't work. He didn't get higher than a lieutenant-commander" (in the navy during the Second World War) and you have to be a general or brigadier to rate in civil defence, said Mr. Gregory.

He noted that as you come down the scale in civil defence offices, "you also go down in military rank."

QUICKLY EXPAND

Tony Gargrave (CCF-MacKenzie) disagreed with Mr. Gregory.

"No government in Canada can ignore the question of civil defence. If a tragedy ever did occur, every country must be able to defend itself as best it can. Civil defence must provide a nucleus which can be quickly expanded."

He said he was in civil defence in London in 1939, as a boy.

"I hope there will be no scare headlines," said Premier Bennett, gazing up at the press gallery. "That would be a disservice."

He congratulated Mr. Gargrave for his remarks, adding that if civil defence is not doing enough, it is because the public is not taking enough interest.

ON INDIAN RESERVATION

Raid by RCMP Ottawa-Sparked

OTTAWA (CP)—An RCMP raid on the Six Nations Indian reservation near Brantford, Ont., last week was made at the request of the federal citizenship department, Justice Minister Fulton said Tuesday.

Questioned about the matter in the Commons by Mervyn Hardie (Liberal, Mackenzie River), he said both he and RCMP Commissioner L. H. Nicholson were aware of the impending raid, although as usual in such cases the details were left up to the local RCMP commander involved.

WHAT LAW?

Mr. Hardie asked under what law the citizenship department has the right to order the RCMP to make raids on reservations.

Mr. Fulton said it was a case of asking the police to carry out their duty of maintaining law and order.

"Is there a state of war between us now?" asked Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver East) in an apparent reference to an attempt by hereditary chiefs of the reservation to seize power from the elected band representatives and set up an independent nation.

Mr. Winch received no reply.

Shady Doings By Mrs. Duncan

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—The shady past of convicted murdered Elizabeth Duncan was exposed Tuesday at the opening of a hearing to determine whether she will be sentenced to death or life imprisonment.

Mrs. Duncan, 54, was found guilty Monday afternoon of buying the murder of her Canadian daughter-in-law, Olga Duncan.

The same jury is hearing evidence on which it will decide the penalty.

The first witnesses, two San Francisco vice officers, testified that they arrested Mrs. Duncan May 11, 1953, for operating a house of prostitution.

District Attorney Roy Gustafson introduced records showing she served six days in jail.

Gustafson called Leonard Solenne, a Carpenter, Calif., truck driver who was Mrs. Duncan's last husband, of at least 11.

Sollenne said she proposed to him Aug. 11, 1957, when he was 28. Mrs. Duncan told him her late husband had left her $196,000, but the will provided she would have to remarry to get the money.

She offered to split the money and they were married next day, but he never got any money and obtained an annulment soon after.

When the penalty is decided, Mrs. Duncan still has a plea of not guilty by reason of insanity to be disposed of before any sentence can take effect.

Long Delay In Old Jail For Seaman

HONOLULU (AP)—A Rumanian seaman, held for Vancouver, B.C., police in a slaying case, may be detained in this city's 101-year-old jail from a month to 18 months, it was learned Tuesday.

Konstantin Dumitru, 39, a crew member of the Finnish freighter Kolsholma, was arrested Sunday on a United States' warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice.

"I am not a murderer, Dumitru said Monday at a preliminary hearing. He indicated he would fight extradition on a charge of killing a Vancouver bartender March 5.

The U.S. warrant for Dumitru's arrest was issued at the request of Police Inspector Archie Plummer, who is here to return Dumitru to Vancouver.

It was expected to take at least a month to get the necessary papers in order. Plummer's immediate plans were not known.

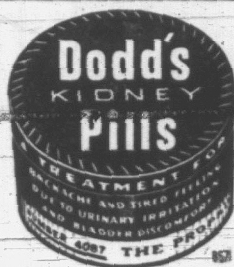

BOYCOTT ON NFLD. SHIPS URGED

VANCOUVER (CP)—A world-wide boycott on ships and goods from Newfoundland was suggested in a telegram to the Canadian Labor Congress Tuesday by the B.C. Federation of Labor.

The telegram asked that "all possible pressure" be brought to bear on Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland through international union action.

It proposed that the 9,000,000 member International Transport Workers' Federation be asked to organize the boycott.

Federation secretary Pat O'Neal said he has had indications that the Longshoremen's Union would co-operate.

U.S. Readies '3-in-One' Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans to launch a Vanguard three-in-one satellite were announced Tuesday at a celebration of the first anniversary of Vanguard I.

Dr. John P. Hagen, director of Project Vanguard, said the launching of Vanguard III would take place at Cape Canaveral, fairly soon. He said it was designed to provide, in effect, three separate satellites:

The empty case of the third-stage rocket of the launching vehicle. This will be a metal tube weighing about 52 pounds.

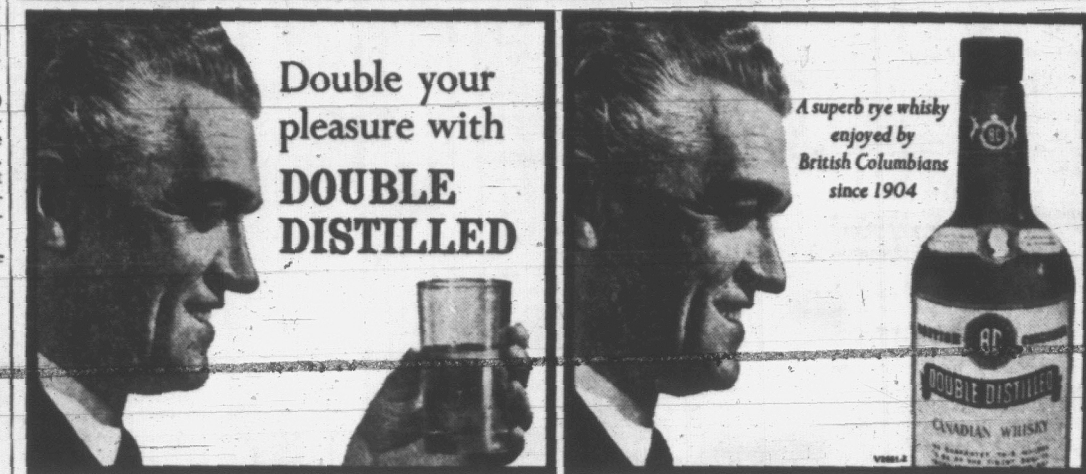

A plastic sphere 13 inches in diameter, with an arm extending out about two feet. The end of the arm will contain a magnetometer, to measure the earth's magnetic fields. It is set out on the end so that it will not be disturbed by the metal parts inside the sphere. This satellite will weigh about 22 pounds.

An expandable balloon 30 inches in diameter, weighing 1½ to two pounds.

This is the way scientists hope it will work:

The balloon will be folded into a small tray at the base of the plastic sphere. When the three-stage launching vehicle's nose separates from the final-stage rocket, a gas cartridge will inflate the balloon.

Because of its large area and light weight, the big sphere will slow much more rapidly than the other parts of Vanguard, and thus will provide more precise measurements of drag or friction in space.

Child Witnesses Tell of Shooting

A 7-year-old girl, wearing a red dress and with a big white bow in her hair, stepped up to the witness box in Assize Court Tuesday and told of hearing her 6½-year-old brother shot dead on their Central Saanich farm home last December.

Evidence of Rena Schut, 6929 Veyaness, came on the second day of the manslaughter trial of 35-year-old herdsman Adam Reich, alleged to have killed Arrie Schut with a .22 bullet intended for a dog.

"I was near the pumphouse behind our house," the girl told the court in a low voice, "when I heard a shot."

"Then I saw Arrie coming toward me. He was coming around by the hay-shack, holding his left shoulder with his right hand. I ran to the house to get Daddy and Daddy took Arrie inside and laid him on a chesterfield."

"CARRYING RIFLE"

Rena said she then saw the accused climbing off a woodpile behind his house adjoining the Schut property, "and he was carrying a rifle."

The girl's 9-year-old brother Dick testified that he was playing "army" with some other boys on the Schut farm when he heard the shot that struck Arrie.

"Arrie tried to walk home. He got a little bit past the woodpile, then he fell down. He stayed down."

Dick said he did not know that Arrie had been shot, "but I could tell there was something wrong with him."

The boy, cross-examined by defence counsel Lloyd MacKenzie about a dog that Reich claimed had been bothering his rabbits, said he heard the accused say earlier that day that he would shoot the dog if it worried the rabbits any more.

CLASPED CHEST

One of the boys playing behind the Schut home was David Ostapovich, 8, who remembered hearing the shot and seeing Arrie walking toward the house clasping his chest.

"Then he fell down and stayed still for a while. I didn't look at him because I was scared to," the witness added.

Mr. MacKenzie: "Did you see the dog?"

David: "No."

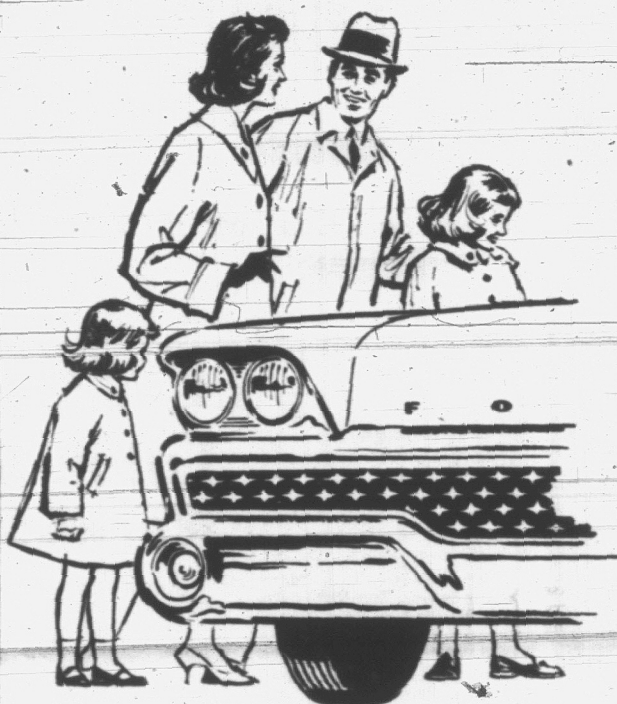

Earlier, the trial bogged down on the question of location of a pumpkin. Key to the defence argument is expected to be that the .22 bullet intended for the dog was deflected by an obstacle in its path, perhaps by a pumpkin, and ricocheted into the boy.

Central Saanich police chief F. L. Brownlee testified that Reich told him "he felt sure he had missed the dog and that the bullet must have ricocheted."

Chief Brownlee said he examined stakes and other obstacles in the path of the bullet, including some pumpkins, for marks of deflection, but found none.

He said a .22 rifle taken from Reich's home contained one .22 cartridge case and nine live short .22 shells.

BUYING A NEW CAR?

Here are six of the many tests you'll enjoy at the Do-It-Yourself Demonstration

The Bounce Test. It's not a new system of weight reducing... just a future Ford owner enjoying the comfort of foam-cushioned seats—standard in Ford but not in competitive cars.

Hidden Value. That's the proud Ford owner in the background. His muffler has an aluminized coating to protect it from corrosive exhaust acids... protect him from frequent replacements.

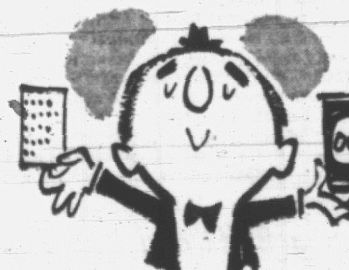

The Squeeze Test. After you've taken this test, you'll really appreciate the extra width of Ford's door openings. We call it "easy-to-get-in-and-out-of-ness."

The Grunt 'n' Groan Test. Heavy suitcases? The higher you have to lift 'em, the heavier they seem. Ford's trunk is cut lower so you merely slide luggage in... and save your back.

The Thump Test. He's not knocking on wood—he's finding out if it's true that Ford really has the most complete insulation in its class. Come in and see how very true it is!

More Hidden Value. Four thousand miles between oil changes—that's the efficiency record of Ford's oil filter. This standard Ford money-saver costs $11.10 extra on Ford's chief competitor.

DO-IT-YOURSELF DEMONSTRATION DRIVE

After you've taken all the Do-It-Yourself tests be sure to arrange for a demonstration drive. You choose the time... you choose the route. We supply the Ford and you do the rest.

CLUB WARNED

Scenic Beauty Lost Without Planning Now

Adoption of a plan for Greater Victoria development is essential to preserve the scenic qualities of the region, Kiwanis members were told Tuesday.

Capital Region Planning Board director Brahm Wiseman told the clubmen at a luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel that if "development of the region does not proceed on an orderly basis... the beauties as we know them today, will cease to exist."

Non-adoption of the plan, he said, would mean that only 300,000 people could be accommodated in the peninsula as opposed to 375,000 if the area were developed in an orderly fashion.

Mr. Wiseman also pointed out that "sprawl" development would be inadequate, delayed, and make for costly provision of services such as water and sewers.

"There should be some responsibility on the part of the municipal governments to do a little better job of organizing our development."

With the aid of color slides, Mr. Wiseman explained the main features of his board's plan, including development of urban areas, parks and roads. The plan envisages a population of 195,000 by 1976 with an increase in the present working force of 50,000 to 72,000 in the same period.

He called for compact orderly development north of Victoria, provision of east-west through roads, and the purchase of parkland and waterfront land along Marine Drive and up the Island and Patricia Bay Highways.

Wilson's Iron Doesn't Show

Red Wing Forward Ties Record; Plays 508th Consecutive Game

DETROIT (CP)—Johnny Wilson bears no resemblance to an iron man in hockey.

He's blonde, wears a crewcut and is slender, almost fragile looking. He weighs 168 pounds and plays a sport dominated by tough, hard-checking men many pounds heavier.

Yet Tuesday night, Wilson equalled a record of durability set 22 years ago as his Detroit Red Wings kept their dim Stanley Cup playoff hopes alive by defeating Chicago Black Hawks 2-0.

Wilson played in his 508th consecutive National Hockey League game.

"I had to be pretty lucky to do it," he said. "I've had lots of injuries, charley horses and bangs in the head."

Wilson tied the record he shares with Murray Murdoch Saturday against New York Rangers, Murdoch's old team.

STILL ACTIVE

Murdoch, the celebrated "Mudhook," is still active in hockey. He is 35 and coaches the Yale University team. He set his ironman mark by playing in every Ranger game from 1926 to 1937, when he retired.

Wilson, 29-year-old left-winger from Kincardine, Ont., began his streak Feb. 10, 1951. He started with the Wings, played two full seasons with Chicago and returned to Detroit before last season.

Wilson figured prominently in Tuesday night's win. He set up the Wings' first goal on a perfect pass to Norm Ullman. Defenceman Warren Godfrey fired the second goal and goalie Terry Sawchuk scored his fifth shutout.

Tiger Tamed

BOSTON (AP)—Stubborn Paul Pender fought his way back to ring prominence Tuesday night by uncoupling a furious left-hand attack for a unanimous 10-round decision over ranking middleweight contender Ralph (Tiger) Jones at Boston Garden.

VOICES OF EXPERIENCE

When rookie Richard Barry reported to New York training camp he was listed as an outfielder. Now Bill Dickey (right) is converting him into a catcher, Dickey, one of the all-time Yankee greats, played big part in developing Yogi Berra into great backstop, and believes Barry may also become star behind plate.

PERFORMING IN NEW ROLE as Los Angeles coach, Pee Wee Reese, long-time shortstop star with the Dodgers, uses experienced eye to pick out faults as pitcher Sandy Koufax brushes up on sliding technique.

Big Boys Stumble On Spring Circuit

By UP International
There'll be a pair of fine pennant races after all this year if the current Grapefruit League standings are "for real."

Everybody seems to be conceding the races to New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves but both defending champions are under .500 today while Boston Red Sox and Los Angeles Dodgers are playing sensational ball. The Sox defeated San Francisco Giants 6-1, Tuesday, to raise their spring record to 8-1. Baltimore Orioles are the only other American League team over .500, while the Yankees have lost five of nine games and Chicago White Sox, rated the A.L. Eastern chief contender, are last with a 3-4 mark.

RAIN IN FLORIDA? Dodgers, idled by rain Tuesday, along with most of the other teams training in Florida, have a 5-2 record that is by far the best in the National League. The Braves stand only 3-5 and the Pittsburgh Pirates, who finished second last season, are 5-6.

The standings, after 10 days of action on the exhibition circuit, are as follows:

Early Surge Helps Totems

TOKYO (AP) — The visiting British Columbia Totems rugby team trimmed the all-Kanto Japanese squad 16-3 Tuesday for their fifth victory in an eight-game goodwill tour of Japan. The score at the half-time was 16-0.

Champ Delays Welter Clash Second Time

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The welterweight boxing title fight between titleholder Don Jordan of Los Angeles and challenger Virgil Atkins of St. Louis was rescheduled Tuesday because of the illness of Jordan's wife.

Promoter Sam Muchnick said Jordan's wife gave birth six weeks ago to a premature baby and Jordan was fearful of leaving his wife's side at this time.

The fight will be held at the same site—Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis.

This is the second postponement for the fight. It was to have been held March 6 but was reset for April 3 after a tornado hit St. Louis and damaged the St. Louis Arena.

Nelson Faces Vernon In B.C. Senior Final

NELSON (CP) — Nelson Maple Leafs won the Western International Hockey League championship and the right to meet Vernon Canadians in the British Columbia senior finals when they defeated Rossland Warriors 5-1 before 1,500 fans here Tuesday night.

Leafs open the British Columbia finals here Saturday against Vernon.

Rossland was outshotted, outshot and outskated in the third game of the best-of-five WHL final.

The Leafs' Howie Hornby, Carl Forster-Johnny Goodwin line scored four of the goals, the other being driven home by Marsh Severyn. Forster

Mrs. Whyte Tops Par Competition At Uplands Club

Mrs. M. J. Whyte and Mrs. J. Munro captured top honors in a pair of women's par golf competitions held Tuesday.

Mrs. Whyte set the pace for "A" division entrants at Uplands Golf Club, completing the 18-hole competition all-square with par.

Mrs. T. L. Christie and Mrs. J. Riddell finished in a dead-lock for "B" division laurels at Uplands, both five-down. Mrs. J. M. Coxworth was one up on regulation figures to lead "C" division.

Mrs. Munro topped "A" division shotmakers at Victoria Golf Club with a two-down score. Mrs. W. H. Yardley was four down in leading "B" division and winner of "C" division was Mrs. J. S. Lister, who posted a one-up score.

WORLD PUCK TOURNEY A PROMOTER'S DREAM

PRAGUE (AP) — A total of 440,000 spectators saw the 54 games played in the preliminary rounds and the finals of the world hockey championships March 5-15.

CTK, the official Czechoslovakian news agency which reported the figures, said this included 195,000 who watched the 15 final games for the first six places in Prague.

The report did not include box office figures.

Champ Conceded Favorite's Role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The world featherweight boxing championship goes on the block tonight, with Hogan "Kid" Bassey, of Nigeria, a slight favorite to retain his title in a 15-round fight with Davey Moore, of the United States.

It will be Bassey's second defence of the crown and it should be tougher and more exciting than the first. That was last April when the little tiger from Nigeria belted out Ricardo "Pazartito" Mereno here in three rounds.

Bassey and his manager, George Biddles, concede that Moore, the No. 1 ranked contender, poses a threat. Biddles says the hard-hitting native of Springfield, Ohio, is the best Bassey has met in the United States.

But Biddles maintains that some of Bassey's European victims were better fighters than the American crop.

BELTED MERENO OUT

Moore got the title fight by stopping Mereno—he did it in one round—but his calibre of opponents isn't too impressive.

Who's Up on Top, Mister? It's Mr. What, That's Who

LONDON (AP) — Irish horses Mr. What and Slippery Serpent remain the betting favorites for the Grand National steeplechase to be run over Aintree's turf course Saturday.

Britain's leading bookies have made Mr. What, a runaway winner last year, 8-to-1 favorite to take the race for the second straight year. Slippery Serpent was second favorite at 10 to 1.

Complete betting odds on the four-mile, 856-yard, 30-obstacle race:

Mr. What, 8 to 1; Slippery Serpent, 10 to 1; Done Up, 10 to 9; Oxo, Syndburgh, 100 to 7; Nic Atkins, 18 to 1; Tiber-etta, Turmoil, 20 to 1; Green Drill, Mr. Gay, 22 to 1; Ker-stin, Oscar Wilde, Soltown, 25 to 1; Belsize II, Cannoble Lee, Irish Coffee, John Jacques, Valiant Spark, Eagle Lodge, 33 to 1; Glorious Twelfth, Kill-ballyown, Mainstown, Stop List, Top Twenty, 40 to 1.

Others were unquoted. Thirty-seven horses still are entered for the 113th running of the National.

The odds were set at a bet-ting call-over Monday by Britain's leading bookies.

New Compensation Act Benefits Pass Hurdle

The British Columbia Legislature Tuesday gave second reading to new amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act, despite CCF complaints that the new benefits do not go far enough.

At the same time, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks announced a royal commission will be appointed this year to investigate methods of increasing compensation coverage among commercial fishermen.

He said the government "views with concern" the fact that only about 1,300 out of a total of 7,000 fishermen have taken advantage of optional coverage under the act, despite special provisions passed four or five years ago.

"The government will appoint a royal commission this year to find a solution in respect to fishing, some improvement over the present arrangement."

Main complaint of the CCF members in the House was that the bill, while it increases compensation payments to workmen injured in the future, it does not increase payments to persons injured before the amendment is passed.

CEILING RAISED

Under the bill now before the House, a workman may receive in compensation up to 75 per cent of his earnings up to $5,000. The rate depends on the percentage of incapacity.

The act at present sets the ceiling at $4,000. A workman injured 10 years ago, when wages were depressed compared to today, would receive a greatly reduced pension from the man who may be injured in the same manner when the bill is law.

Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) quoted from a letter from a constituent who was granted a WCB pension years ago. He said he was badly affected by rising living costs. The man is totally incapacitated by silicosis and receives $138.89 a month.

The writer said his family would benefit by his death, under the terms of the bill.

"But I don't want to die so my family can benefit from my death and my family don't want me to die to get a better standard of living," he wrote.

WIDOWS GET MORE

The new bill increases the pension for widows and children. His wife and child would get $125 in pensions without him and his wife would be able to work. Now she must feed and clothe him out of the $138 pension and care for him at all times.

Mr. Nimsick said this was one of hundreds of similar cases in the province. "It is unfair not to adjust such pensions. It is discriminating against a certain section of our people."

Altogether, the new legislation showed the government had responded to some measure to steady "pressure from the Opposition," he added, however, "In effect it throws only a few extra crumbs to the workers."

He insisted also that the increased maximum of from $75 to $90 for a widow and from $25 to $35 for each child did no more than counter-balance the increased cost of living since 1952.

"If we force widows to go out to work we are merely contributing to juvenile delinquency."

He said hundreds of families of injured workmen will continue to live on about $138 a month "and you think you have done a good job."

"This bill does not go nearly far enough," said Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East).

SILICOSIS ISSUE

He admitted the amended bill broadened the definition of silicosis but suggested it be broadened further to include silicosis in its early stages.

"Silicosis takes from five to 15 years to develop to the diagnosis stage," Mr. Turner said. He added that silicosis patients who also have tuberculosis very seldom come out of hospital cured, since silicosis resists the TB cure.

Cedric Fox (CCF, Burnaby) said he felt a $90 pension for widows wouldn't "care for the mortgage."

He said the widows' pension should be $125, "the least anyone could get along on."

Dan Campbell (SC, Comox) said the government must maintain a delicate balance in adding to responsibilities of industry, which pays all compensation costs.

"We could be priced out of our markets with calamitous results to industry and labor alike," he said.

John Squire (CCF, Alberni) said this attitude placed "more value on the shareholder's dollar than on the welfare of widows."

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said Mr. Campbell's remarks were "uneducated nonsense," and he produced WCB annual reports to show that the cost to industry for compensation is going down each year as safety increases.

George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria) pointed out that in recent years the Opposition had brought in four amendments which would have improved the act as this bill is now improving it. Only Cyril Sheldford (SC, Omineca) supported the amendments. Now the Social Credit members said it was "wonderful" that they had thought of the amendments.

DISCOVERER OUT OF ORBIT

WASHINGTON (AP)—The defence department announced Tuesday that Discoverer, the first satellite to achieve a circle around the earth's poles, is no longer in orbit.

Roy W. Johnson, director of the Advanced Research Projects Agency, said it "must be assumed" that the satellite launched from the Pacific missile range in California is no longer swinging around the earth.

Johnson based this assumption on the failure of tracking stations to pick up radio signals from the Discoverer.

Arena Bill Meets Stumbling Block

Third-reading of a bill which would allow residents of Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay to sit on the Victoria Civic Arena Commission bogged down in the legislature Tuesday.

Had it passed third reading it would have become law. But debate on the bill was adjourned on the motion of J. Donald Smith (SC, Victoria) after he had clashed with George Gregory, the Liberal member for Victoria, who sponsored the bill.

At present all members of the arena commission must be residents of Victoria. Mr. Gregory's bill would permit residents of Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay to sit on the commission if they are Victoria ratepayers.

Mr. Smith objected to the bill on the ground that Victoria residents have supported the arena's debt through their property taxes.

He claimed Mr. Gregory's bill was "a violation of principle."

BENEFIT FOR FEW

He said there are 20,000 names on the voters' list of Victoria of whom 18,000 are property owners. The other 2,000 are tenant and resident electors.

"Only about 10 per cent of our property owners live outside the city," Mr. Smith declared, "so we are amending this act to enable a few people to sit on this commission."

"And it will mean eliminating 2,000 of our property owners in the city of Victoria."

Mr. Smith said if the new bill became law it would be only fair to bring in a companion bill to relieve Victoria property owners of the taxes they had paid on the arena's debt.

Mr. Gregory defended the bill, which says that "no person shall sit on the board unless he be a resident of the city of Victoria or the municipalities of Oak Bay, Saanich or Esquimalt."

He insisted the "best brains" in Greater Victoria should be available to the arena commission.

"The idea is that those who live outside the city but have an interest in the civic arena should be able to serve," he said.

MUST HAVE INTEREST

John Tisdale (SC, Saanich) supported Mr. Smith in principle, arguing that the taxpayers who have "a definite financial interest" in the arena should sit on the commission.

Mr. Smith said he would do all in his power to persuade the House "not to proceed with this bill."

He recalled that in 1945 the citizens of Victoria, made a contract with the city council to enable the council to borrow money for arena facilities.

Since then the debt had climbed as high as $1,350,000.

"This is a sneak bill and it disenfranchises about 10 per cent of the property owners of this city," Mr. Smith said.

Debate on the third reading of the bill will likely continue today or Thursday.

Greenhouses Bring Farmer Licence Fine

A plea to keep his identity as a farmer was lost by Saanich grower Herbert Charles Saunders when he was found guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday of a charge of failing to hold a trade licence.

Saunders, who operates four greenhouses at 3994 Blenkinsop, was fined $32.50 including a $7.50 licence fee covering a six-month period.

He had argued that since he is assessed as a farmer and both federal and provincial governments classify him as farmer he should not be regarded under the municipal bylaws as a greenhouse operator, and thus liable to a trade licence fee.

Although he regarded himself essentially a farmer, he admitted raising flowers which he disposed of for sale by consignment.

Court held that although he was a farmer there was no limit to what other endeavors he might engage in, including the commercial greenhouse business which is subject to licence.

Saunders said he felt it was not the intention of the bylaw to discriminate against farmers with greenhouses.

Aid Studied For Western Coal Mines

OTTAWA (CP)—W. E. Uren, chairman of the Dominion coal board, said today the board is considering the possibility of federal aid to promote the use of Western Canadian coal in thermal electric stations.

He told the Commons mines committee that such aid might be similar to that granted the Atlantic provinces under the Maritime Power Development Act.

Under this act the federal government pays a portion of the cost of thermal plants and subsidizes the movement of coal used in such plants.

Mr. Uren said the board was doing everything possible to get future electric stations in certain Western areas to be coal users.

Mr. Uren said he hopes to discuss the general subject of coal-burning thermal power plants with officials of the Calgary power commission at a meeting of the board in April.

Gov't Protecting Black Ball-CCF

Refusal to Reveal Ferry Earnings
During Take-Over Upsets Strachan

The B.C. government is protecting Black Ball Ferries by refusing to state what profit was earned while the ships were operated by the government as an emergency measure last summer, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said Monday.

"Speaking in the House, he said the ferries were taken over as a result of a dispute brought about when the company turned down a conciliation board award. The board recommended a 12 per cent increase for crewmen. The company offered eight."

LET PEOPLE KNOW

"I think the amount of money the government was able to save by taking over the people know whether the Black Ball was right and just (in refusing the union request and the board award) said Mr. Strachan."

"The government is protecting the Black Ball in not letting the people have that information," he added.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said he didn't have the information. He did not think he could reveal information regarding either the company or union side of the dispute.

"Have you tried asking Black Ball?" he asked Mr. Strachan.

"I'm not a member of the Black Ball Company, I am a member of this legislature," replied Mr. Strachan.

Tony Gargrave (CCF, MacKenzie) said the use of the Civil Defence Act in forcing the striking workers to work was "an abuse of emergency powers."

"The powers are abused, then the minister refuses the details. This is extremely poor government. The Civil Defence Act was never intended to be used in an industrial dispute," said Mr. Gargrave.

Premier Bennett drew laughter from the government benches when he revealed that Mr. Gargrave had wired him, asking leadership in settling the strike. Now he was complaining.

"I asked him for leadership, not emergency powers," said Mr. Gargrave.

Gagliardi Hot-Rodder At Heart

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi says he has the blood of hot-rodgers in his veins.

"I saw an article that the safest speed is 65 miles per hour—and that's my kind of language," he said Monday night at the opening of the B.C. Custom Car Association's annual motorama here.

Mr. Gagliardi, who has been convicted three times on speeding charges, added: "I've tried to help you out by raising the limit to 60 miles per hour so you can get a little practice before going out on a drag strip."

"I'm something like you hot-rodgers. The same blood flows in my veins."

HOUSE, NOT GOOSE, WAS COOKED

BUSINESS TOPICS

House, Not Goose, Was Cooked

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor
In Calgary this winter a sudden windstorm ripped through a new subdivision. Twenty minutes later a group of houses were bald where once they had their shingles. Unhappy insurancemen glumly signed a $12,000 cheque to cover the bald spots.

Malone bald spots.

In Vancouver a few months ago, a woman put a goose to cook in her new ultra-luxe push-button range. The range was just one of many sparkling new appliances in a brand new home of the $25,000 variety. The woman set the automatic timer, dashed down the street to visit a friend. When she returned she found the goose cooked, her house was. By the time insurance adjusters finished picking up the goose and the rich carpeting, the bill came to $2,800.

Insurance men cited these examples Tuesday to illustrate that collecting premiums and counting their money is only part of the job.

Last year they had other problems. Many of their members, bent on increasing their volume, cut rates, particularly on fire and household contents coverage. Some of them cut the rates so low they cut their own throats.

The more stable members of the industry were forced to reduce their rates to some extent, even though they felt that the continually broader coverage they offered called for an increase.

After a setting period, rates slowly came back up to normal. And on Jan. 1, the industry put its feet flatly on the ground and increased the insurance rates for the first time in 30 years.

"Fire insurance," said Ken Roberts of Vancouver, "doesn't just cover loss by fire any more."

"The industry had to extend its coverage—go modern—as it were. First we went into household effects. Then TV became popular and aerials had to be insured. Then we insured fences and plate-glass windows."

"But even today the cost of insurance is negligible. Take a house in Victoria—a man wants to insure for $10,000. Three years ago it would have cost him $45. Today it costs only $55."

"The problem we have had, and still have, is that we are chasing inflation. Costs have risen in every phase of insurance, yet we have to set a fixed rate three years ahead. Industry demands it. Oh, we try and project our costs in advance, but we are in a competitive field and rates have to be based on experience rather than anticipation."

E.C. at the Empress, gave an example.

"In one area we increased auto-insurance coverage by 15 per cent. Hardly had the decision been made when garages in the area jumped their repair rates by 10 per cent. This had the effect of taking 10 per cent out of the 15 per cent premium increase."

Statistics show that Canadians, for the sixth consecutive year, are the talking phone users in the world. Canada topped all countries in the number of phone conversations per person. The average was 497.

We may be short of money, short of RCMP commissioners, and short of short skirts, but wind we have plenty of.

Directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce will hold their regular luncheon meeting Friday at noon in the Empress Hotel.

Washington Report Sparks Oil Shares

Western oils moved ahead but the rest of the Toronto stock market was mixed today in active mid-afternoon trading.

Boosted by a Washington report that mandatory oil import controls might provide special allocations for Canadian oil, western oils moved up from the opening. Pipelines and refining oils were also strong.

The New York market turned mixed today as profit-taking chopped earlier advances.

AT TORONTO, two speculative mines dominated the base metal section. Radiore slipped off 15 cents at $1.30 after moving up 25 cents at the open. Radiore gained 73 cents Tuesday on rumors of a good copper find on its Matagami, Que., property. Norval, with property alongside Radiore, was up 2 cents at 22 cents.

Among industrials Bank of Nova Scotia gained 1 1/2 at 73 1/2 following Tuesday's 5-cent hike in its regular 50-cent quarterly dividend. Calgary Power was up 2 points at 94.

AT NEW YORK Aluminum Ltd. gained 1/2 and Distillers Seagrams 1/2. Hudson Bay Mining lost 1/2 and McIntyre Porcupine 1/2.

On the American stock exchange Canadian Marconi and Shawinigan gained 1/2. Eureka Molybdenite and Preston East Dome 1 1/2, and Scurry Rain.

AT VANCOUVER moderate trading saw prices drop slightly during the forenoon. Vantor traded 3.00 at 98. Bethlehem Copper moved 13.50 at $1.70. Caribou sold 3.30 at $1.35. Sheep Creek traded 7.00 at $1.64. Trojan moved 24.00 at 20.

AT MONTREAL the stock exchange held an early advance and was generally higher today.

Pipelines and refining and western oils led the advance.

AT LONDON a firm tone prevailed on the stock market today. Gilt-edged securities showed occasional improvements.

There was a good selective demand for industrials. Among the miscellaneous leaders Hudson's Bay was a firm spot. Oil shares were quiet and selectively firm.

Coppers were firm and other base metal shares were better when changed.

NEXT MONTH

Douglas to Speak At CCF Convention

Guest speaker at the provincial convention of the CCF at Vancouver next month will be Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan. It was announced Tuesday by CCF provincial leader Robert Strachan. The convention takes place April 3, 4 and 5. Premier Douglas speaks at a banquet April 4.

Mr. Strachan said the convention will map out a program to win an election he expects will be called in 1960. About 200 delegates are expected from all parts of the province. The new $80,000 provincial headquarters will be opened April 3 by Mr. Strachan. The convention will meet in the Mount Pleasant Canadian Legion Hall.

CPR FIREMEN GET PAY HIKE

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Pacific Railway and the firemen's union have signed a new three-year working agreement that provides wage increases for the railway's 2,800 firemen. A joint company-union announcement said the agreement would establish a period of stability on the CPR, long troubled by dissension and strikes over the issue of locomotive firemen on diesel engines.

Alaska Corridor Plan Rapped

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — An Alaska legislator said today a British Columbia MLA's proposal to swap the northwestern tip of the province for corridors through the Alaska panhandle "doesn't appear to make sense." The comment came from Democratic representative R. S. McCombe, co-author of a bill to create an Alaskan International Development Commission. Herbert Bruch of Esquimalt said at Victoria Monday night that before British Columbia swaps power for corridors it should look into the possibility of using the mountainous northwestern tip of the province as trading stock. The development commission bill by McCombe and Rep. Morgan Reed (D, Skagway), specifically proposes joint development of water resources of the upper Yukon river and leasing of corridor to Canada. The bill passed the Alaska house two weeks ago, and was approved with a minor amendment by the state Senate Monday. It has not yet been signed into law by Alaska's acting governor, Hugh J. Wade. The area mentioned by the British Columbia legislator is a section of the province that includes much of the lower, unsurveyed area of the rugged St. Elias mountain range. The Canadian boundary runs up the northern slope of Mt. Fairweather to its highest peak. The rest of the mountain is in Alaska, including the southeastern and southwestern slopes to the peak.

Six Cabinet Ministers Broke Pledge—Harding

Six cabinet ministers, most of whom still sit in the House, and 50 per cent of the government MLAs, made election promises in 1953 to support the civil servants in their fight for bargaining rights, the legislature was told Tuesday.

Randolph Harding (CCF—Kaslo-Slocan) said not only had the promise been broken, but the premier and cabinet had also broken a 1957 promise to publish results of an enquiry into the matter.

This was the Carrothers Report, turned over to the government in January, but never made public. Tabling the report in the House would have averted the strike last Friday.

He was backed up by Gordon Dowding (CCF—Burnaby).

"I don't know what the government proposes to do about it," said Mr. Dowding, "but I cannot understand why it has taken the cabinet all this time to disclose the contents of this report."

"I find it incredible that intelligent beings in control of this government cannot realize that our civil servants are just as entitled as they are to a respectful hearing.

MORE DEDICATED

"Many of our civil servants are highly intelligent people who have been to university, and some of them are more dedicated than the politicians . . ."

"You speak for yourself," interrupted Premier Bennett. Mr. Dowding: "Time and time again the government has shown that political considerations come first—it is a matter of expediency rather than public service."

Opposition leader Robert Stanbury scolded the government for charging civil service pickets were guilty of coercion, which he said was stated in court Tuesday.

"Coercion means the use of force, and those of us around the buildings here Friday will disagree."

He hoped the government did not think an injunction will bring back the happy condition which existed between the service and its employer.

PLAYED WITH

"That piece of paper or order from the court cannot erase the feeling from the civil servants that they have been played with. It will need a complete reversal of government policy toward the civil servants."

He asked Provincial Secretary Wesley Black to outline the government's future approach to the civil service.

"As far as the present situation is concerned, I have no comment," replied Mr. Black.

'MAKE VEHICLES STOP FOR SCHOOL BUSES'

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP) — A coroner's jury said Monday the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act should be amended to require all vehicles to come to a stop before passing a stationary school bus.

The jury ruled accidental the death of five-year-old Albert Louis Mrecek, who was struck by a car March 11 after alighting from a school bus at nearby Farmington. B.C. legislation requires vehicles approaching a stopped school bus to reduce speed to 15 miles an hour.

New Trials After Official's Death

Two men convicted on Vancouver Island last year have been granted new trials by the Court of Appeal in Vancouver because of the death of a Nanaimo court reporter.

Lawyer G. L. Murray told the Crown he has been unable to get transcriptions of evidence taken by the late W. H. Maisey before Judge L. A. Hanna at the trial of Edward Charles Lyon Wilson, and before Magistrate W. H. Bryant at North Cowichan in the case of Richard Harrington Douglas.

Wilson was sentenced to five years in connection with the safe blowing and theft of $650 in cash and $1,038 in cheques from the district Co-Operative Association at Alberni Dec. 2, 1957.

Douglas was given three years when found guilty last April 13 of assault causing bodily harm to a police officer.

Mr. Murray, representing the Crown in both cases, said it would be unfair to force the appeals on without a transcript and he agreed to a rehearing of the charges.

N. COWICHAN STREET NAME PLAN OKAYED

CHEMAINUS—A plan for new street names in various parts of North Cowichan municipality, presented by Coun. A. Staples, was approved by the council last week.

Under the new plan, streets in the Chemainus land district will be given historical names, while those in the Chemainus fire protection area will be the names of trees, plants and flowers.

Streets in the Comjaken land district will be named after mountains; in the Crofton fire protection area for famous ships, and Maple Bay streets for pioneers.

In the Somenos land district they will be named after towns and villages, and in the south end of the municipality, after islands.

Sign written in the dust on the back of an Island Freight Lines highway behemoth: "Have wife, must travel."

This is the true—repeat, true—story of the canary who killed the cat. You heard me. Not the cat who killed the canary, the canary who killed the cat. Cliff Ladd of the SPCA vouches for the story. A small cat was adopted out by the SPCA, and only a few days later, the owners called and sadly asked to have the cat's body removed. Investigation showed the owners had gone out for the evening, leaving the cat and the canary in the living room. The canary was in its cage, a heavy ornamental type. Reconstructing the crime, it was obvious the cat had attempted to get at the canary, and in doing so had knocked down the cage. Which landed on the cat, breaking its neck. When the owners returned, the canary was flying around the room, singing merrily.

Fellow says the trouble with the long-winded weather forecasters on TV, by the time they get around to telling you what's going to happen, it's happened.

Tucked away in the back half of yesterday's paper was a news item, the significance of which goes far beyond the headline:

"TRADE-OFF MT. FAIRWEATHER." The news item, in case you missed it, referred to a suggestion made in the legislature by Herbert Bruch, the Seated member for Esquimalt.

Mr. Bruch said B.C. should trade off Mt. Fairweather and adjoining areas in the far northwest corner of the province for a corridor through the Alaska Panhandle.

The significance of this item, of course, is far from lost on the members of the Replace Ripple Rock Association.

The Association, at the present time, is looking around for a suitable mountain with which to replace Ripple Rock, and thus create a new footing for a bridge to the mainland.

Until the Association has completed its survey of mountains which might be suitable for this purpose, we cannot afford to lose a single mountain, even for the laudable purpose of opening a corridor across the panhandle.

I am happy to report the legislature paid little or no attention to Mr. Bruch's ill-advised suggestion. But the Replace Ripple Rock Association is keeping a close eye on him, just in case.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Twelve-year-old Donna Wilson, 634 Garbally, was taken by police to St. Joseph's Hospital for examination after the bicycle she was riding was in collision with a car driven by a 16-year-old girl at the Fountain Circle Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

Police said the driver would be charged in juvenile court with failing to yield the right of way.

Martin Taylor, 13, of 977 Humboldt, was uninjured when his bicycle was in collision with a car driven by Edward Bailey, 148 Burnside, at Vancouver and Pandora at 8:25 p.m. The bicycle had no headlight, police said.

Ownership of an outboard motorboat found drifting in Portage Inlet by Saanich police Tuesday has been traced to William Craig, 2985 Admirals.

Police feared possibility of a mishap when the boat was spotted unoccupied with gasoline tanks empty and a broken oar lying in the bottom.

The 10-foot craft apparently went adrift during a wind.

If you're a navy wife with a husband aboard either HMCS Sussexvale or HMCS Ste. Therese, please don't get mad at the old man for not writing.

The navy announced today (with suitable regret) that the two ships were not able to get mail ashore at Pago Pago, in the Samoa Islands.

So the letter you expected this week won't arrive until next.

Sussexvale and Ste. Therese will place outgoing mail ashore at Suva on Saturday.

Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association will hear an address entitled "Nature's Delicate Balance" by Dr. William Newton, in the Douglas cafeteria Thursday at 8 p.m.

General meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held tonight at 8 in the War Amputations Hall.

A tie resulted in a rifle shoot competition Tuesday between six-man teams from the PCLCI Cadet Corps and Naval Technician School apprentices. Score was 564 points each. In other cadet-shooting activity, Sgt. Major Ed. Walker, 17, 3405 Browning, has been presented with a book and a wrist-watch for winning last year's Lord Strathcona shoot and the Youth of Empire shoot.

PCLCI Cadet Corps will hold two days of fieldcraft and manoeuvres at Albert Head April 25 and 26, it was announced today.

About 60 cadets will participate.

Sudden population increase for Metchosin district took place today when Holland America Lines ship Dongedyk docked at Ogden Point and the DeGroot family prepared to disembark.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. DeGroot and eight children (pictured above) are here from Baarn, Netherlands, to begin a new life in Canada.

Mr. DeGroot, 42, intends to start a trucking business. His wife is 38, and they are both immensely proud and happy with their big healthy, and bright family.

They have purchased a home in the Metchosin district. Most of the children have a fair knowledge of English, and all will attend school here.

The DeGroot family, reading from the eldest to the youngest: Elise, 15; Jack, 14; Hubert, 12; Monica, 11; Frank, 10; Teresa, 7; Willie, 6; and Margot, 4.

Broken Back Death Cause In Plunge

Death in hospital Tuesday of a Victoria man who fell from his second-storey room March 7 was due to a fractured vertebrae, an autopsy showed.

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart set Friday at 10 a.m. for an inquest at Sands Funeral Home.

George Brabant, 37, was found unconscious on the ground outside his room at Selkirk Lodge, 819 Fort, where according to police there had been considerable drinking that day.

Jubilee Hospital said Brabant died at 3:05 p.m.

Trustee Kenneth Leeming has been appointed by Greater Victoria school board to a four-year term starting June 1 as member of the Victoria College Council.

He succeeds the late W. P. Jeune.

The Victoria Electrical Association will meet Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m., in the B.C. Electric conference room to hear a report on the recent Electrical Contractors' Association of B.C. meeting in Vancouver.

A new fire engine for the department of transport at Patricia Bay Airport arrived here today aboard the Holland America Line's freighter Dongedyk.

The eight-ton machine was built by the Eyre Co. of England.

Up-Island Fatality Probed

A 32-hour struggle for an Alberni man's life came to an end early today in Nanaimo General Hospital when Ernest Netzer, 24, of 515 Alwyn Street, died from head injuries received in a motorcycle accident Monday night.

The victim was catapulted 20 feet from his machine after he lost control at Craig's Crossing, on the Island Highway, five miles south of Parksville.

A passing motorist found Netzer's crumpled bike in a ditch, and the injured man some distance away. It was pointed out by RCMP that the victim had not been wearing a crash helmet.

An Austrian, who came to Canada in 1952, Netzer was said by a friend to have been a keen motorcycle fan who spent much of his time on his German-made machine. He was single, and worked for MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. as a lumber carrier operator. Inquiry into the death will be held at Westwood Funeral Chapel at Nanaimo tonight.

Labor Act Rally Here On Friday

"Evil implication" of proposed new B.C. labor legislation will be discussed at a mass meeting of 11 Victoria building trade unions in the Sirocco Club, 8 p.m. Friday.

An estimated 1,000 men will hear Vic Midgley, second vice-president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, criticize the new Bill 43 as unconstitutional and unfair to labor.

The meeting will also hear reports of progress on a new collective negotiating set-up to establish pay and conditions in the building industry.

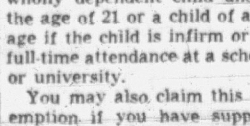

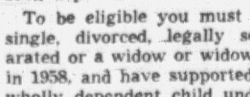

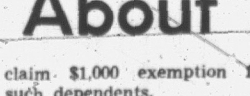

Speakers, besides Mr. Midgley, include E. T. Staley, carpenter; Don Bushnell, pile driver; Bob Milliken, teamsters; Earl Allen, laborers; and Jack Driscoll, electricians.

Meanwhile, Mr. Midgley said the Federation of Labor had spent $5,000 so far in its campaign to "get the story of the new legislation to the people."

"It looks as though we can't defeat the bill, but we can make sure people understand just what results it will have and what rights it will deny them."

He said the federation planned to test the new bill in the courts "section by section, and we're prepared to have to pay money to do it."

Next step in the federation's publicity campaign, he said, was setting up a series of meetings in Victoria to be addressed by top labor officials.

STEWART SMITH . . . does it again.

City Student Wins Bursary Worth $2,000

A. J. Stewart Smith, one of Victoria's top students and scholarship winners, has been awarded a $2,000 National Research Council bursary.

He will be graduated from the University of B.C. this spring, and will spend the summer at the Pacific Naval Laboratory. In the fall he will return to UBC to start work on his master's degree.

The bulk of the bursary—$1,200—is designated to assist him in his 1959-60 scholastic term, but the balance of $800 can be used either this summer or next summer if he is to spend the time working toward his higher degree.

Ultimately he hopes to achieve a Ph.D. degree in physics.

According to Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of the UBC physics department, the NRC bursaries are highly competitive, and are designed to assist students interested in working straight through to their higher degrees.

Mr. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Smith, 1255 Oscar, won the Governor-General's medal for B.C. on leaving Victoria High School, topped his first two years at Victoria College, won the Burbridge scholarship at UBC for physics and mathematics students, and the Chris Spencer Foundation scholarship.

Victoria Cadet Going to Bisley

Staff Sergeant Pat Barclay, 16, PPCLI Cadet Corps, 2981 Foul Bay Road, will attend the Bisley shoot this year after placing among the 10 best cadet corps shots in Canada. He has been a corps member three years.

In the 1958 shoot at Connaught Ranges, near Ottawa, S/S Barclay placed among the top 10 in Canada-wide cadet competition, and was also a cadet rifle coach at the Vernon summer camp. He has taken several other shooting awards.

The Bisley shoot will be held July 6 to 18 at Brookwood, Surrey.

One ticket on Mr. Gay (22-1) is shared by David Kenny and W. O. (Ollie) Corbett. Other holders and horses drawn: Lt. Irwin Stuit, Top Twenty (40-1); L.S.W. L. McNaughton, Mainstown (40-1); David Anderson, Green Drill (22-1); June Houghland, Royal Tournament (unquoted); Mary Vezza, Done Up (100-9); S. J. Thompson, Done Up, and L. H. Lunn, Armorial III (unquoted).

A further draw today will determine 2,500 winners of $100 prizes and 300 winners of $10 consolation prizes.

Struggles To Shore, Collapses

A rugged constitution and a strong will to live saved a Victoria fisherman who spent over two hours in 39-degree water Tuesday after his small boat swamped near Discovery Island.

George Wells, 3830 Palo Alto, was handling for cod from a 12-foot outboard when a sudden series of waves swamped him at 10:30 a.m.

"I had a load of cod in the forward part of the boat," Mr. Wells, who fishes commercially, said Tuesday night.

"The sea began to make up, and the wind was blowing strongly."

"I was in the gap between Chatham and Discovery Islands, near Alpha Island, headed into the wind."

"The boat was down by the head, due to the weight of fish, and I wanted to get up forward, to shift some of the cod back. But wind and spray kept blowing back at me."

Saw Wave Coming

"I saw a wave coming, and turned my back. I didn't realize it was such a big wave. It nearly filled the boat."

"It was followed by three more waves, bang, bang, bang. 'Before I knew it, only the bow of the boat was out of the water, and I was in it."

"My life jacket was in the bow of the boat, and I couldn't reach it. I had on a heavy windbreaker and rubber boots. I went under a couple of times. Then the boat came up, and I was able to grab it."

Reached Bow

"Clinging to the gas can, I managed to reach the bow of the boat, which was barely above the surface. There was a pocket of air right in the forepeak, keeping it up. But it began to bubble out."

"I had to go under the water and try to lift the bow up so more air would get in. I must have gone down, oh, ten or twelve times, doing this."

"The boat and I were drifting toward a reef near Discovery Island. The reef was sticking a few inches above water.

"I left the boat and reached the reef, where I hung on. I had managed to get my rubber boots off so I could swim better."

"I clung to the reef while the tide ran out. It must have been more than an hour before the tide went out enough so I could walk and crawl to shore."

"My feet were so numb, I didn't even feel the rocks cutting them."

"While I was clinging to the reef, an RCMP patrol boat went by, but he was too far away to see me."

'I Collapsed'

"When I got to the shoreline, I collapsed. I could not drag my numbed feet out of the water."

"Finally I got enough strength back to get to my knees, and finally my feet."

"I staggered along a trail to the home of Capt. E. G. Beaumont on Discovery Island."

"Capt. Beaumont was all kindness. He took me in, gave me dry clothing, and filled me up with hot soup."

"I think it was about 1 p.m. by the time I reached his home."

After Mr. Wells was "thawed out," Capt. Beaumont took him in his own boat, and towed in the swamped craft.

It was bailed out and towed to the Royal Victoria Yacht Club. Capt. Beaumont also took Mr. Wells ashore, and the fisherman was able to drive his truck home.

Late Tuesday, Mr. Wells was still showing effects of his exposure to the icy water. But he's going back to fishing.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Regarding the World's Amateur Hockey Tournament now underway, do these players receive specified wages? —W.W.

A.—Regarding Russia's players, all our information is that they are, in fact, subsidized by the state. In Canada, meaning of the term "amateur" is always being misused. Players in amateur senior leagues such as the Okanagan and Western International Leagues DO receive pay. It is no secret. Even many of Canada's junior teams pay their (under 20) players. Bonafide amateurs in Canada today are players in minor house leagues, such as the Victoria Commercial League.

Canada's players are perhaps not paid wages, in the strictest sense of the word. Instead, the Belleville, Ont., club "contributes" expenses to offset any "wages" its players may lose while away from their jobs.

Plain truth is that today there is no amateur player in hockey on or above the senior level.

Bible Stories Tell Child Real Meaning of Easter

By PENNY SAVER

With all the Easter eggs and Easter bunnies around, I often wonder how many children really know what Easter is all about. Of course, the thrilling fun of dyeing eggs, putting on stencils, hunting for those hidden eggs Easter morning and finding large chocolate bunnies at the table is all very real.

But most of us seem to miss in the rush, the meaning of the Easter story.

If your child hasn't a Bible of his or her very own telling the story, what a lovely time Easter would be to give one. A small-size Bible, with a brightly-colored cover picturing Christ with the children, would make a prized possession for any child. Print is large and there are colored illustrations throughout. Children's Bible is $3.

Easter time is a special time for realizing all the marvels of spring, and the promise of growing things.

What could be more appropriate for an Easter gift than a living rose bush? Lovely blossoms year after year make a perpetual remembrance to a friend or loved one of your thought.

Small, pruned bushes, their roots neatly tied in sacking, can be carried easily. Imported from the flower country, Holland, with dozens of varieties to choose from, one bush is 69 cents. Victoria-grown rose bushes are 65 cents.

Pretty bushes available now for any garden are the camellias. A two-year-old shrub with buds is $1.50.

For the stores where these plants and gifts can be found, call EV 2-3131. I have the information!

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Newcomers can be too eager:

I recently moved to a new community. Must we wait for people to invite us to their homes? If we meet a couple we like, may we extend the first invitation? After spending an evening with a couple in their home, is it necessary to call and thank them, or are those thank-yous expressed by a return invitation at a later date?

Louise

Louise Davis answers:

It would be better to lean a little over backward by waiting for people to invite you to their homes or to call on you. The residents can be a little suspicious if a newcomer seems to be aggressive by making the first move. It is wise to be on the safe side and let the other fellow make the advances. After being entertained, it is always nice to phone your hostess a day or so afterwards to reaffirm your pleasure of a delightful evening. That would give you the opportunity to say that you hope they will drop around before long so that you can know each other better. Whether they do or not (people aren't as good at calling these days as they once were), you at least have the opening to invite them to your home at a specified date, but wait a while before you set the time. The main thing is to be cautious and not move too fast or too seemingly eager about the return engagement.

She Escaped By Walking; Now in North

By MARIE MILBURN

The nurse who was the last woman in Rangoon before the Japanese invasion, who "walked" out of Burma to escape, and who, during recent years, has been the only medical aid to an isolated community in far northern Saskatchewan has been visiting Victoria recently.

She is Mrs. Ellen B. Wyatt. Born in Burma, living at the Burmese oil fields, she still has childhood memories of watching, nightgown clad, as a night strike would set thousands of close-set derricks flaming.

After gaining nursing degrees, Mrs. Wyatt joined Lady Minto's Imperial Nursing Service—"the Indian counterpart generally to our Victorian Order," she explains.

Being posted to Chitigong, "the wettest place in the world," and assisting at the birth of the daughter of a Maharaja were among her adventures in India.

It was in India that she met and married her American husband.

The following year he was posted to Burma and Pearl Harbor was attacked.

Mrs. Wyatt, leaving her new son under the care of a nurse-governess in India joined the army nursing corps and was sent to Burma.

PLANE IN FLAMES

The homecoming was not auspicious. As she unpacked her bags, sirens announced a Japanese raid, and her first glance out the window showed a plane going down in flames.

Assigned to an ambulance train she worked constantly taking wounded out of the city until the "E Signal" left the city evacuated.

Mobile hospitals and ambulance ships were her duty next, carrying wounded from the ever-advancing Japanese attacks.

"On what was supposed to be our final trip before being flown out we were told there was no hope of planes going from our 'safe' destination," she recounted.

"Our crew deserted. We had two choices. Go on to the doomed airforce post, or 'walk out.' I chose the second."

So with only the clothes on her back (she had lost all other possessions in Rangoon), a pair of tennis shoes and a knapsack of medical supplies, she started out with two other women and 14 men.

"With no route or chart, the stars were our guide," Mrs. Wyatt says in her soft English accent.

"We feared two things, the Japanese and the monsoons. We would never get out if either caught up with us. 'One man died of cholera during our trek. No one would go near him but his buddy and me. We buried him on a river bank."

In India safely, her health finally gave out and she came down with malaria.

Meanwhile, her husband, who had been fighting with the Chinese, sustained an injury while parachuting, and was discharged. They were reunited in India.

He was killed a year later in an automobile accident.

Mrs. Wyatt, now with a new daughter, stayed on. At close of the war she took a position as district nurse in the Channel Islands.

Here she became interested in nursing in Canada—even going so far as to send for an application form.

"When it arrived it was so formidable that I hid it away in a drawer," she laughs.

But she did eventually come to Canada, and has become an "angel of mercy" to thousands of isolated Indians and settlers in Saskatchewan's north.

"I was doctor, nurse, and midwife in one little community for over two years. The nearest hospital was one hundred miles away—I flew critical patients out."

Her Canada adventure is a permanent one. After a trip back to England "just to see how homesick I would get," she laughs, "I know that this country is for me."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Pregnancy, Nursing Sag Some Bustlines

Many women lose their lovely bustline due to pregnancy and nursing their babies. Yet I have seen women who retained practically the same contour even after having a couple of children.

There are many factors which enter into this. Generally speaking the woman with a large bust is likely to find that it sags after these experiences, and also just with the passage of time. The woman who has a smaller bust is not so susceptible. Body tone also plays some part and some women are just naturally firmer than others to begin with.

However, perhaps the most important factor is the care you give yourself. During pregnancy and the nursing period the bust is heavier than usual and the extra weight must be properly supported with brassieres which are especially designed for this purpose. If you wish to save your curves, you should take advantage of these.

It also is imperative that you lie down whenever you nurse your baby. This provides little rest periods for you and relieves the bust of strain.

A reader writes, "My problem is whether or not to nurse my second child. After nursing my first, I noticed that my bust sagged a bit and seemed smaller."

"I know that this is a question I will have to decide myself but I am wondering if deterioration occurs in the muscles at this time."

"Perhaps I am being selfish in thinking of my figure. I probably wouldn't if my husband did not admire it so much. I always have had a good figure."

So far as I know physicians and psychologists agree that it is better physically and psychologically for the baby to nurse unless there is some special reason for not doing so. However, formulas have been so greatly improved that bottle feeding is not the hazard today it used to be. This is a question for your pediatrician and yourself to decide. If a woman does not nurse her child, she misses a wonderful experience.

Nothing happens to the muscles (which lie underneath the breasts). The bust itself sags because of the extra weight. This is why extra support of the right kind is essential.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Care During and After Pregnancy" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 21. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY...

The Old Vs. the New!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my parents. After twenty-seven years of fighting, my parents have decided to get a divorce. I plan to announce my engagement when my boyfriend gets back from overseas in July and we will be married in September. I think it is a disgrace to have the divorce pending with all the publicity it entails (my mother is naming a woman who works for my father) while I am being engaged and married. I know the parents of my fiancé will be ashamed also. Don't you think my parents could hold off their divorce for a few months until after I'm married and gone?

DISGUSTED DAUGHTER

DEAR DISGUSTED: Your parents should definitely consider you and postpone their divorce. If they could stand each other for 27 years, another few months won't make any difference.

DEAR ABBY: Last week our 12-year-old daughter took the name of the Lord in vain. Her father heard her and spanked her bare behind. I said she was practically a woman and was too old to be spanked by her father that way. He said that as long as she needed it he was going to spank her the only way it would bring results and being a woman made no difference. Do you think he is right?

MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: When a young woman needs to be punished—punish her—but I think you are asking her to bear too much.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is being played for a sucker by the little snip he married. He was out of work for a long time but at Christmas time she made him go deep into debt to buy her something she picked out for herself. She needed this gift like I need a hole in my head. Our son is so good-hearted he walks all over him. When they are short we pay their bills, but it sure grates me to see the way she uses him. Do we have a right to say something or not?

JUST PLAIN IRKED

DEAR JUST: People who are frequently "short" and accept financial help from parents have no business spending their money for foolishness. Any man (including your son) who lets a woman walk all over him must enjoy the abuse. You have a right to say plenty.

"How far should we go?" Get Abby's booklet "What Every Teenager Wants To Know." Send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY in care of this newspaper.

Bride Wears Monaco Blue Gown

Embroidered net over taffeta in Monaco blue formed the waltz-length gown worn by auburn-haired bride Miss Mary Ruth Kingscote at her wedding recently. She chose a tiny flowered hat in a matching shade and carried a colonial bouquet of pink rapture roses, carnations and hyacinths.

Greenhagh united in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nigel H. Kingscote of Cowichan Bay and Bruce Murray, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric A. Young of Victoria.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Janice Jackson who wore a turquoise-brocade sheath style dress with sheer overskirt and carried a bouquet of pink feathered carnations.

Robert Provan was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception with relatives and close friends was held at the home of the bride's parents at Cowichan Bay.

After a honeymoon up-Island the young couple will live in Victoria until fall when they will leave for University of British Columbia where the groom is a commerce student.

$600 Realized

Women's Auxiliary to Multiple Sclerosis Society raised $600 at its luncheon and tea held recently in Hudson's Bay Douglas Room. Mrs. Frank MacKenzie Ross, wife of Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia and honorary president of the auxiliary, opened the affair. Proceeds will go towards medical research work in multiple sclerosis.

TODAY'S RECIPE

RAISIN CREAM PIE

One cup light or dark raisins, 2½ cups milk, ¼ cup cornstarch, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, 3 egg yolks, 1 baked 9-inch, deep-type pastry shell; meringue (basis 3 egg whites and 6 tablespoons granulated sugar).
Rinse and drain raisins. Combine with 2 cups milk in top of double boiler. Heat to just below boiling point. Combine remaining ½ cup milk, cornstarch, ½ cup sugar, salt, flavoring and egg yolks, and beat until well blended. Stir into hot milk and raisins. Cook and stir until thick. Turn into pastry shell. Cover with meringue and bake in a slow oven (300 to 325 degrees F.) 25 to

JUST ARRIVED
Another shipment of favorite white spruce paneling - just in time to finish off those interior panel jobs before spring. Attractive recessed Vee pattern 1/2" of 8 1/2" lengths, 146 and 158 sizes.
Price per 100 B.M. only $27.50
Remember, spruce paneling stays light in color on your walls and does not darken with age as does pine.
Kiln-dried spruce shelling too at Kiln-dried prices.

'TIRED' GRECO COMPANY SHOWS SIZZLING VITALITY

What Are They Like Rested?

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

"We're dog-tired after 14 months of touring," a spokesman for the Jose Greco Spanish Ballet Company commented Tuesday night just before curtain time at the Royal Theatre.

Tight schedules of one and two-night stands means spending most of the time between rehearsals and performances, on the road. Everywhere they have met with capacity audiences demanding their top form, company manager William Wilson told me.

"And I know that neither Mr. Greco nor any single member of the company has ever let them down in any particular."

LIKE OPENER

Manager's words were being re-stated as a capacity audience at the Royal was made breathless by the sizzling vitality of "tired" dancers who looked as though they were doing an opening night in New York.

No rock 'n' roll session was ever more frenetic in mood and movement; no classical ballet performance purer or more elegant in line and form. In this company there is no diminution in performance among the ranks. There are only gradations of perfection that achieve their sublime peak in the performance of Greco and his exotically beautiful partner and female star, Lo'la de Ronda.

Sound accompaniment for the dancers is provided by piano duettists and a trio of guitars, also palms, fingertips, toes and heels, voices and the most educated castanets in the business.

Stage setting is simple — a filligree screen behind which lurks the piano. But the glory of the costumes has seldom been equalled in any show seen on the Royal stage. Only the Spanish it seems, could put together such a flamboyance of color that it shouts and sings at you.

The many dances on the program, including the condensed version of one of Spain's few complete "story" ballets, De Falla's "Three-Cornered Hat," were the uncorrupted distillation of the country and its people—their mood, their vitality, their temperament and joy.

FIREBALL

Mime plays its part in these dance forms. There was the expressive picture of adolescent flirtation in "El Joropo" by the Bronze Gypsies, for example. There were unforgettable individual performances like Rosario Caro's; a veritable fireball, she seems carried away by rhythmic ecstasy.

But it is Greco who emerges above and beyond all others, like a white flame burning with the essence of his art; a dancer whose style is transcendent, whose entire body vibrates with the rhythms; whose hands, shoulders and head convey so many delicate nuances of meaning.

The "tiring" dances performed by Greco and Miss de Ronda were a poem in motion delicately amplified by their talking castanets.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class) BB (Worthwhile)
A (Don't Miss) B (For Rainy Days)
C (To put in time)

(A) "THE OLD MAN AND THE SEA" (Capitol): After reviewing Warner's adaptation of Ernest Hemingway's Pulitzer prize-winning story, "The Old Man and the Sea," I began to think rather irreverently of Jack Benny and his "Impromptu" program for television a couple of Sundays ago.

The scene had Benny as a guest on a show with three other guests who were of the literary. They immediately began a learned discourse on "The Old Man and the Sea," speaking of man's eternal fight with the universe, his destiny and so on. "Gee," interjected Benny at the height of the discussion, "I must have been reading another book. Mine was just about an old guy who went fishing."

I offer this note because it is quite likely that some will see in the picturization only what Benny said he saw in the story—a rather slow-paced one-hour and 26-minute film about an old man who went fishing. The more discerning, however, will appreciate other things, especially those who enjoyed Hemingway's coda, what was originally meant to be the beginning of a novel.

First of all they will appreciate Spencer Tracy as the "old man." He is restrained as always, quite in sympathy with the character and certainly worthy of his Academy Award nomination as being among the five best actors of the year.

There will be those also who will appreciate the Hemingway lines, the manner he has of repeating the little things until they add up into something much larger that deals with life and its mysteries and man's small, often sad, role in the overall plan of creation. For the last reason doubtless "The Old Man and the Sea" also received nomination for "best adapted screenplay." The photography is a rare thing, neat, with latent color that sets the mood for the theme. The shots of Tracy finally hooking into his giant fish after an 86-day drought are of a breath-taking quality and one doesn't have to ponder on the film's third nomination for "best cinematography."

However, as good as the adaptation is, it is, in parts, slow to the point of tedium and one couldn't help but wonder if somewhere along its course it couldn't have been speeded up just a notch in the interest of the audience if not in the interest of Hemingway.

In addition to Tracy's splendid solo role, there is the acting of young Felipe Pazos, the lad who looks after the "old man," seeing that he is fed and has enough to drink and, above all, offers the encouragement the young can sometimes tend to the old, just by their being young and having an excess of energy that can spill over.

MAP OF CARIBBEAN shows how close Cuba's Oriente Province is to Haiti and Dominican Republic. Santiago de Cuba is principal city in Oriente Province.

ALL HAITI 'KNOWS' CASTRO'S PLAN

'D-Day' Set for Trujillo But Dominicans Unworried

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (NEA)—The "official schedule" of Fidel Castro's invasion of the Dominican Republic is available here in lush variety. Everybody in Haiti has the word. Or, at least some word on how and when Generalissimo Trujillo across the border will find himself fighting to protect his uninvited, frightened guest, Fulgencio Batista.

The attack is to come this month. Or next month. It was supposed to come last month, both informed and uninformed sources say, but failed because of insufficient funds in Havana.

Actually, anyone who has tried to make an appointment with Fidel (or anybody else in the Caribbean) knows that all events are late. The more important the event or the people, the later. And Fidel Castro is very important right now to every Caribbean country.

The means of launching the attack, however, is far from hazy.

TWO-BY-AIR

"The invasion will come by air," observers report. "There will be bombings first and then parachute landings on the outskirts of Ciudad Trujillo."

This information is based on the firm fact that two Cuban planes flew over Port-Au-Prince and seemed to be headed toward the Dominican border.

There is equally firm information to the effect that Castro will land ships at Ciudad Trujillo because the city is protected only by the 15th century "cannon" Columbus could not take home with him.

A look at the map, however, shows that Cuba's Oriente Province is only 60 sea miles from Haiti. And these miles are crossed every day by bearded Haitians, coming home from Cuba.

The official word describes these men as transient laborers who take seasonal work in Cuba. But their beards and long hair are reminiscent of Castro's rebels whom they probably helped.

HAITI EASY MARK

An invasion of Haiti would not be difficult. The country is grindingly poor, envious of its prosperous Dominican neighbor, and traditionally receptive to force—Haiti has had nearly 150 revolutions in as many years.

And Cuba has a tradition of FIDEL CASTRO . . . poised.

GEN. H. TRUJILLO . . . waits.

threatening the Dominican Republic. An armada was fitted out 20 years ago, but never got away from shore. Twelve years ago Cuba made another fist, but relaxed it eventually.

Across the boundary, however, Dominicans do not seem worried about anything Cuba threatens to do. "Talk," a high-ranking Dominican army man said, "even Cuban talk does not overthrow governments."

A tour of border outposts bears him out.

At the Dominican town of Jimani, border guards have settled in with their wives and children. No replacements or supplementary troops have been sent up. No extra weapons or extra lines of communication have been put in. About the only incident of the entire tour was a long argument between an army man and a farmer. A compromise was reached, however, and the army man bought two goats for $3—which is a good $2 cheaper than you can buy them in Ciudad Trujillo.

MUST POST $5,000

House Backs Bonding Of Used Car Dealers

Second reading was given in the legislature Tuesday to a bill which requires bonding of used car dealers and tightens controls over teen-age drivers.

The amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act stipulate car dealers must post a $5,000 bond.

They also strengthen the regulation which states all drivers between 16 and 21 must carry driver's liability insurance or drive vehicles protected by liability insurance.

IN EFFECT

Attorney-General Robert Bonner explained outside the House that this restriction has been in effect for some time as a discretionary requirement by superintendent of motor vehicles George Lindsay.

It is the first time the requirement has been included in the act.

In the legislature, the attorney-general said: "There is an unfortunate group in that age bracket which likes to jazz a car around."

The restrictions are aimed at that group as a public protection.

'Modern Living' Talk Tonight

An address on "Furniture and Interior Design" will be given by Don Adams of Vancouver, at the Art Gallery, Moss Street, tonight at 8.30. The talk will feature the modern look in modern living.

Meat Inspection Backed by Board

Union Board of Health Tuesday threw its weight behind a municipally-endorsed movement to have the provincial government establish inspection stations for locally raised meat.

The situation is that local meat producers can sell in the city without a stamp of approval on products. Much meat, beef, for example, is shipped in from Alberta, and a federal approval stamp before sale is mandatory.

Not so with local sales. Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, medical health officer, said "there have been instances of food poisoning due to meat, though it was pretty hard to determine." There was, however, reported 14,000 visits during 1958, more than 5 per cent above 1957. Most dealt with pre-natal assistance and help with newborn.

During samplings of various waters in the area, it was found "some" contamination existed from Clover Point due to "illegal" sewer connections to the surface drain discharging at Foul Bay. Dallas Road waterfront, it was mentioned, was closed due to this contamination, from St. Charles Street to Howe.

At other local beaches samples of water appeared satisfactory.

The speed of sound ranges from 738 to 760 miles an hour at sea level.

UPSET of Mine-Mill union leadership at Sudbury, Ont., following bitter 87-day strike against International Nickel Company of Canada last year was led by Don Gillis, 45, reeve of nearby Neelon and Garson Township.

TRANSIT CHIEF CLEARED

TORONTO (CP)—W. E. P. Duncan, general manager of the Toronto Transit Commission, was unanimously cleared Tuesday night by TTC commissioners of charges of mismanagement and insubordination laid by former commission chairman Allan Lampert.

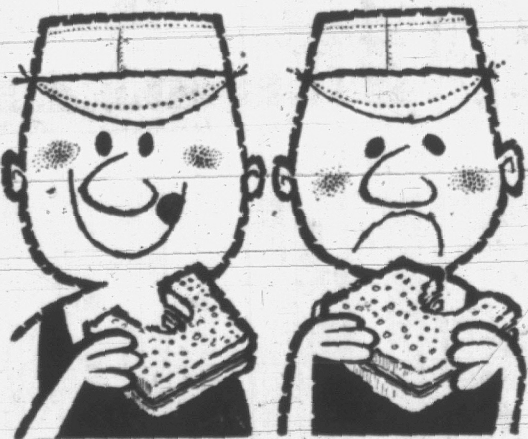

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat . . . actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-flowing mix. In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat . . . unblocks it . . . for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills exclusive formula of natural, vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat in your body. So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat. Only 43¢.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

RADIO TELESCOPE

Huge Space Ear For B.C. Interior

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—A massive electronic ear is being installed 15 miles south of this B.C. Interior city to listen to the voices of the universe.

It is a radio telescope, an 84-foot dish which can take the pulse of space. When dust and cloud blind the eyes of optical telescopes, this ear will listen undisturbed.

Why? "Simply curiosity about our environment," says Dr. Jack Locke, who will head the six-man listening post when it is completed late this year.

25 CARLOADS
With Col. Ernest Denison, chief of building and property management for the department of mines and technical surveys, Dr. Locke will supervise unloading of 25 freight-carloads of his new baby—the White Lake telescope.

Two years ago Dr. Locke set up instruments at White Lake to take readings that ended a 12-month, Canada-wide search for the telescope's site.

The requirements were many. Dr. Locke, head of the Stellar Physics Division of the Dominion Observatory in Ottawa, sought a static-free bowl amid high mountains, far from high-tension power lines and high-powered radio transmitters.

The spot had to have light snowfall and dry air because moisture could short-circuit the instrument, and it had to be near a town where hard-to-find technicians could live contentedly.

SPACE RADIATION

Dr. Locke explains the radio telescope by giving a short course in radio astronomy.

"Radiation was discovered coming from space shortly before the war, but the phenomenon was largely ignored until after hostilities," he said.

"Advances in electronics during the war made it possible to check the source of this radiation and observers made a startling conclusion. Parts of the universe are acting as radio transmitters."

He said strength of these radio waves is not diminished by the vast dust clouds which clutter space and block light from segments of the sky. And a radio telescope can hear much farther than an optical telescope can see.

CAREFUL ASSEMBLY
The $250,000 instrument was built in Cohasset, Mass., and shipped aboard 25 freight cars. It weighs 200 tons. Assembly of the telescope will begin in May, and before testing is finished it will be late summer.

Mounted on a 50-foot tower, a giant 84-foot parabolic dish will tune itself to the emissions from space, following the swing of the stars from horizon to horizon by day or night.

First problem the telescope and its technicians will tackle is determining the exact shape of the Milky Way.

"Why has it a spiral structure?" asks Dr. Locke. "What holds its arms together?"

Answering these and other questions will provide satisfaction to science, but no tangible results for some time, Dr. Locke said without apology.

ALWAYS ENGLAND

Vicar Preaches In Pub

IPSWICH, Eng. (CP)—While an Anglican church is being built in this Suffolk town, services are being held in a pub by Rev. Alan Morton, the vicar.

SEVENOAKS, Eng. (CP)—An army mortar bomb was found among goods at a church jumble sale in this Kent town.

EWING, Eng. (CP)—Residents of this Hertfordshire village complain that when the lights in the Anglican parish church are switched on, the voltage at nearby houses drops so much they cannot watch television.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each week receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas of the World.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Kevin Powell, aged 13, of South Portland, for his question:

What Is a Sand Dollar?

The pale, cookie-shaped sand dollar we find on the beach is merely a skeleton. Its diameter is about twice that of a real silver dollar and it is made of whitish, chalky material. You may swap it for another beach trophy, but this is one dollar you cannot use for cash. The flat round skeleton is also called a sea cookie. But it is not a cookie at all. It is the dried-out, even alive, few sea dwellers care to dine on the sand dollar.

The living sand dollar is covered with a fuzzy skin. The fuzz is made of tiny spines mixed with little tube feet, or suckers. On the upper surface is the outline of a graceful five-petalled flower. In color, the living sand dollar is a mottled blend of greys and purples. The mouth is a hole in the centre of the under side. Near the edge of the under surface is another hole through which the little fellow gets rid of water and other wastes.

You can see these two holes on the underside of the sand dollar's skeleton. You can also see the graceful five-petalled flower etched on the top surface. If you look closely you will see that it is formed by ridges of little horizontal slits. This design is important. Along with the coat of little spines, it gives a clue to the plan of the sand dollar. It belongs to the group Echinodermata—the spiny-skinned ones. And the number five seems to be a lucky number in this animal group. It includes the starfishes, most of which have five arms, and the sea urchins who have five double rows of feet, and the sea cucumbers who also have five double rows of tube feet.

Feet Both Walk and Hold

The sand dollar has tiny tube feet, or walking suckers, over most of his body. He uses them with his movable spines to get around. But a set of larger tube feet poke out from the five petal design. They are used for taking in oxygen and maybe also as holdfast.

The simple little animal enjoys life at the bottom of shallow sea water. His internal organs are between the two round plates which form his skeleton. He is mostly plates and spines with very little flesh. This is why few sea dwellers care to eat him.

Humble as he is, Nature has a very important place for the little sand dollar. He is one of her garbage men and things are arranged so that the little fellow thoroughly enjoys his work. He takes in quantities of sand through the round mouth on his underside. No, he does not eat the sand. His digestive system sorts out fragments of algae and bits of decaying organic material, which are his food. So, simply by eating, the sand dollar helps to keep the sea floor free of garbage and other litter.

ever, the moon is made of much lighter material than is the earth. So, for its size, it does not weigh nearly as much.

The earth weighs about 83 times more than the moon. Since the earth weighs about 6 sextillion, 570 quintillion tons, we can estimate the moon's weight by dividing this fantastic number by 83. Earth's weight in tons is written as 6,570 followed by 18 zeros.

Divided by 83, this comes to a little more than 79 followed by 18 zeros. On the scales, then, our golden moon would be a little more than 79 quintillion tons.

Two Jail Terms In Single Day For Burglar, 18

Lynn Robert Sheppard, 18, of 1808 Cook was given his second jail term of the day when he appeared in Saanich police court Tuesday afternoon.

The sentence, for breaking, entering and theft at Tillicum Outdoor Theatre on March 8, will run concurrent with a previous sentence given in city court for six months' definite and six months' indeterminate at New Haven.

First sentence also was for breaking, entering and theft, at Fairfield Greenhouses Co. Ltd. one week earlier.

Oak Bay Police Order 'Parked' Boats Removed

Owners of small boats dragged onto municipal park property near Oak Bay Boat-house have two weeks to move them.

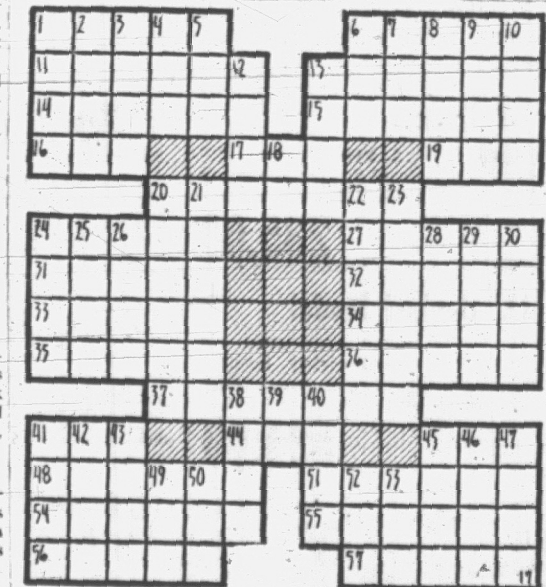

Oak Bay police issued the warning Tuesday, and if the boats remain steps will be taken to have them removed. Several boat-owners put their craft ashore on the grass and boulevard to protect them from recent storms.

The common May beetle has antennae that are built like the antlers of a moose.

Bottle of Beer Costs Minor $20

Roderick Allistair McMillan, 18, of 219 Russell, was fined $20 in Saanich police court Tuesday when he pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of beer.

Police said McMillan had a partly-drunk bottle of beer under his coat when the car in which he was riding was stopped for a traffic offence on Patricia Bay Highway.

'A Man at Peace With Himself'

By ALAN HARVEY
OTTAWA (CP) — They called him the least-liked prime minister since Neville Chamberlain. He was too aloof, too aristocratic.
When he spoke the common tongue — "there ain't gonna be no war" — the effect was embarrassing. It was like a dramatic actor descending to smut.
All that has changed. Prime Minister Macmillan, unpopular a year ago, comes to Ottawa today acclaimed as the West's new leader, supplanting ailing State Secretary Dulles at least temporarily as Allied anchor man in the in-terminable tug-of-war over Berlin.
Mr. Macmillan's recent 10-day journey to Russia brought praise from all Canadian political parties. CCF spokesman H. W. Herridge said the British leader was "just the right type of personality" to deal with Russia's Nikita Khrushchev.
In what is likely to be a British election year, Mr. Macmillan's stock has soared from the period early in 1958 when newspapers compared him unfavorably with Chamberlain and opinion polls accorded scant support for the new Conservative leader.
Then, a political opponent described Mr. Macmillan as a "man of mystery," perpetually wearing a mask in public life.
What is he really like, this tall, erect man with the slightly tired expression, the quizzical, hooded eyes and large, mouse-like nose?
Among colleagues, a common impression is of a man at peace with himself, with a settled philosophy based on deep reading and a sense of history.
There is a story that he read a pocket volume of Homer while lying in No Man's Land after being wounded in the First World War.
His celebrated "unflappability," or reluctance to get excited about day-to-day crises, springs from this detachment.
There is a sign in Downing Street saying "cool, calm deliberation untangles all knots". His wife, Lady Dorothy Mac-

'DOG-DAYS'

Big-eyed trusting spaniel looks out from behind pound bars, one of many rounded up by SPCA in Oak Bay's "delinquent dog" drive.

By TONY DICKASON
Oak Bay today is in a dog dilemma. The SPCA, which acts as poundkeeper for the municipality, has taken a chunk out of the dog population.
In a surprise "blitz" Tuesday, SPCA wagons prowled municipal streets, popping dogs into the back as fast as they could be wrestled.
One informant said "at least" two carloads of dogs were picked up.
Dogs in Oak Bay have traditionally enjoyed a peace and quiet more in keeping with life on a rambling estate. But goings of the municipal council to "do something" about dogs chasing cars and cowering through gardens has brought stricter enforcement of the dog bylaw.
Council wrote the SPCA "strongly" recommending that the society lay charges against owners of dogs who allow their pests "to contravene the regulations of the present bylaw."
If these charges are laid, the letter said, it would "tend" to reduce the nuisance of dogs baying around boulevards.
Up to 10 a.m. today, seven dog owners had received police summonses. It could cost them a $2.50 fine.

IWA Office Wrecked By Axe Men

Guards Escape Through Back Door
GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP) — An unidentified group of men wrecked the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) office at nearby Bishop's Falls early today in the latest incident in an IWA strike against the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company.
Five IWA men, posted in the office as guards, escaped through the back door when the raiders began hacking through the front door with axes. There were no injuries.
The IWA men said the raiders arrived in two cars and a van. The number in the group was estimated at about 20.
They chopped out the windows in the one-storey wooden office buildings, hacked at the outer walls and splintered the front door. A typewriter in the office was smashed by an axe.
RAIDER RECOGNIZED
An IWA man said he recognized one of the raiders as a Grand Falls resident.
The IWA office was first moved to nearby Badger after the windows of the office here were smashed by a crowd escorting the body of Constable William Moss, who was killed in a fight between police and loggers. The office was moved to Bishop's Falls Tuesday.
Today's violence shattered an uneasy calm. The IWA men said they received several anonymous threatening telephone calls Tuesday night. They were set to guard the office to prevent damage, but fled when they realized they were outnumbered.
Bishop's Falls, a town of about 2,500, ten miles from here, is regarded as a stronghold by the IWA. About half the work force are loggers, the other railway employees who support the IWA.
RCMP launched a hunt for the raiders.
The IWA says it is distributing relief cheques for $30 monthly plus grocery vouchers to 1,100 striking loggers in central Newfoundland. The union had 1,200 members when it struck for higher pay and shorter hours Dec. 31.
The union is also distributing them to 1,400 loggers with Bowater's Pulp and Paper Mills in western Newfoundland.
The vouchers provide $5 worth of food weekly for each logger, another $5 worth for wives and $2 worth for each child.

(See Page 3)
OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith will be buried in his native Nova Scotia.
A state funeral for the 62-year-old diplomat and former University of Toronto president, who collapsed and died Tuesday, will be held Thursday.
The service will be at Chalmers United Church here at 4 p.m., EST (1 p.m., MST). The body will be flown to Windsor, N.S., for burial Friday.
Meanwhile, coroner Dr. Thomas Kendall said Mr. Smith died of "natural causes" following a stroke.
"He was suffering from high blood pressure and apparently was working under very high stress and strain."

Cabinet Briefed On Moscow Visit

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan today conveyed his "message from Moscow" to the Canadian cabinet.
After morning talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker, he met cabinet members at a noon session and briefed them on his 10-day visit to Russia.

PM ORDERED TO SLOW DOWN PAPER CLAIMS

TORONTO (UPI) — The Toronto Star said today Prime Minister John Diefenbaker has been ordered to slow down following the death of External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith Tuesday.
The Toronto Telegram said reports of Diefenbaker's having to slacken his pace were denied by the prime minister's office. It said his physician merely suggested he take the afternoon off because he appeared so broken up over Mr. Smith's death.
"Only in unity shall we find the strength to combine firm principles with readiness to negotiate."
Mr. Macmillan lunched with Mr. Diefenbaker and afterwards the two, with other ministers and advisers, resumed discussions.
Canadian and British views on German issues are believed broadly similar. Both governments are thought ready to give serious consideration to proposals for disengagement in central Europe.
GOING TO WASHINGTON
Mr. Macmillan, heading a 28-member British party, goes to Washington Thursday. This is his third North American visit in 17 months.
The British leader, wearing a dark blue gabardine coat trimmed with Astrakhan fur, commented on the "typically cold Canadian weather as he went to the Prime Minister's office. It was 10 above with bright sunshine.
WOMAN WAVES SCARF
In the lobby of the centre block, a woman waved a scarf at Mr. Macmillan hoping the descendant of a Scottish crofter from the Isle of Arran would recognize it as a Ross tartan.
Mr. Macmillan said when he heard of Mr. Smith's death he suggested to Mr. Diefenbaker that the Ottawa visit should be postponed but the Canadian prime minister had thought otherwise and "I'm sure he was right."
There was a "serious purpose" underlying the visit in view of the tension caused by the Berlin crisis.
His first words to Mr. Diefenbaker as he came down the gangway from the aircraft were: "Terrible hour to visit you, isn't it?"

Court Ruling On Injunction Still Awaited

VANCOUVER (CP) — No decision has been handed down by noon today on Tuesday's Supreme Court hearing of a dispute between the British Columbia government and its civil servants over picketing rights.
Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan said late this morning he was still working on his judgment.
He heard more than three hours of argument Tuesday on an ex parte injunction obtained by the government Friday to restrain the civil servants from picketing government buildings.
The B.C. Government Employees' Association is applying to have the injunction set aside.
Mr. Justice Ruttan would give no indication of when he might hand down his decision, which will decide the next moves in a drawn-out dispute between the government and the civil servants over collective bargaining rights. The decision had been expected some time today.

Huge U.S. Contract To Buy Canadian Gas

DETROIT (AP) — Signing of a contract which will link Michigan Consolidated Gas Company with the vast new gas fields of Western Canada, and provide natural gas for upper Michigan was announced today by Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company.
The huge program of pipeline construction and expansion will cost two pipeline companies approximately $95,000,000. About $7,500,000 will be spent by Michigan Wisconsin to construct natural gas pipelines in the upper peninsula of Michigan and large additional sums will be required for the building of gas distribution systems.
Mining experts foresee natural gas as a keystone for expansion of the iron ore industry in the upper peninsula.
The contract announced today provides for the initial importation of approximately 200,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily from Canada by Midwestern Gas Transmission Company and the sale of 158,000,000 cubic feet a day of this gas to Michigan Wisconsin. Midwestern will purchase the gas from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., which operates a pipeline from Alberta to Eastern Canada.

Canadians Beaten

PLYMOUTH, Eng. (Reuters) — Canada was beaten 2-1 by an all-star team from Devon, Cornwall and Somerset in an international women's grass hockey game here today.

Gov't Accused of 'Feudal Tactics'

Mr. Dohm, accused the government of "feudalistic" tactics in the dispute.
Counsel for the government countered with a charge that the strike last Friday was illegal.
Mr. Dohm said: "Obtaining a blanket order merely brings about a method of subjugating the government employees. It goes back to feudalistic days."
He contended continuation of the injunction would "do irreparable harm to the association because it removes their only economic arm to show their strength."
Mr. Dohm described the interim injunction as "an extraordinary remedy." He listed three preliminary objections: The writ for the injunction was issued March 12, the day before the work stoppage.

Prayer for Today

Heavenly Father, set us free this day from the bondage of self-will and passion, and ungodly desires, that sin may not have dominion over us. Deliver us from angry and impatient tempers and uncharitable judgments. Give us wise and understanding hearts, and a longing for whatsoever is true and good and lovely, in Jesus' name. Amen.

Oil Curb Blasted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator George D. Aiken (Rep.-Vt.) today urged President Eisenhower to withdraw his March 10 order restricting crude oil imports "before irrevocable damage shall have been done to our economic and political system."

Emergency Landing

GANDER, Nfld. (UPI) — A four-engine Britannia airliner carrying former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee and 65 other passengers, was forced to make an emergency landing today when engine trouble developed during its New York-London flight.

BRITAIN FINDS NEW WEAPON

Elvis is for the Birds

LONDON (UPI) — Elvis Presley's singing is enough to drive any seagull to distraction, the ministry of supply reported today.
In fact, it has become the number one weapon in the ministry's drive to get rid of gulls which have become a flying hazard at Staines, near London airport.
A ministry spokesman said it found out about Elvis' effect on seagulls when it sent one of its men to Holland to record the cry of a gull in distress. He took a tape recorder, which had been used to record a children's Christmas party at his home. One of Elvis' records had been a highlight of the party.
"When Elvis' voice unexpectedly popped out of the loudspeaker, the gulls took off in a flurry and weren't seen again for 24 hours."

Metchosin Here We Come . . .

MONTE ROBERTS

Sign written in the dust on the back of an Island Freight Lines highway behemoth:

"Have wife, must travel."

This is the true—repeat, true—story of the canary who killed the cat.

You heard me. Not the cat who killed the canary, the canary who killed the cat.

Cliff Ladd of the SPCA vouches for the story. A small cat was adopted out by the SPCA, and only a few days later, the owners called and sadly asked to have the cat's body removed.

Investigation showed the owners had gone out for the evening, leaving the cat and the canary in the living room.

The canary was in its cage, a heavy ornamental type. Reconstructing the crime, it was obvious the cat had attempted to get at the canary, and in doing so had knocked down the cage.

Which landed on the cat, breaking its neck. When the owners returned, the canary was flying around the room, singing merrily.

Fellow says the trouble with the long-winded weather forecasters on TV, by the time they get around to telling you what's going to happen, it's happened.

Tucked away in the back half of yesterday's paper was a news item, the significance of which goes far beyond the headline:

"TRADE OFF MT. FAIRWEATHER."

The news item, in case you missed it, referred to a suggestion made in the legislature by Herbert Bruch, the Member for Esquimalt.

Mr. Bruch said B.C. should trade off Mt. Fairweather and adjoining areas in the far northwest corner of the province for a corridor through the Alaska Panhandle.

The significance of this item, of course, is far from lost on the members of the Replace Ripple Rock Association.

The Association, at the present time, is looking around for a suitable mountain with which to Replace Ripple Rock, and thus create a new footing for a bridge to the mainland.

Until the Association has completed its survey of mountains which might be suitable for this purpose, we cannot afford to lose a single mountain, even for the laudable purpose of opening a corridor across the panhandle.

I am happy to report the legislature paid little or no attention to Mr. Bruch's ill-advised suggestion.

But the Replace Ripple Rock Association is keeping a close eye on him, just in case.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Twelve-year-old Donna Wilson, 634 Garbally, was taken by police to St. Joseph's Hospital for examination after the bicycle she was riding was in collision with a car driven by a 16-year-old girl at the Fountain Circle Tuesday at 6.30 p.m.

Police said the driver would be charged in juvenile court with failing to yield the right of way.

Martin Taylor, 13, of 977 Humboldt, was uninjured when his bicycle was in collision with a car driven by Edward Bailey, 148 Burnside, at Vancouver and Pandora at 8.25 p.m. The bicycle had no headlight, police said.

Ownership of an outboard motorboat found drifting in Portage Inlet by Saanich police Tuesday has been traced to William Craig, 2985 Admirals.

Police feared possibility of a mishap when the boat was spotted unoccupied with gasoline tanks empty and a broken oar lying in the bottom.

The 10-foot craft apparently went adrift during a wind.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

Rotary: 12.10 p.m., Empress Hotel, Ken R. Martin, partner in Management Research (Western) Ltd., Vancouver, speaks on "Employer-Employee Relations."

If you're a navy wife with a husband aboard either HMCS Sussexvale or HMCS St. Therese, please don't get mad at the old man for not writing.

The navy announced today (with suitable regret) that the two ships were not able to get mail ashore at Pago Pago, in the Samoan Islands.

So the letter you expected this week won't arrive until next.

Sussexvale and St. Therese will place outgoing mail ashore at Suva on Saturday.

Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association will hear an address entitled "Nature's Delicate Balance" by Dr. William Newton, in the Douglas cafeteria Thursday at 8 p.m.

General meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held tonight at 8 in the War Amputations Hall.

A tie resulted in a rifle shoot competition Tuesday between six-man teams from the PPCLI Cadet Corps and Naval Technician School apprentices. Score was 564 points each. In other craft shooting activity, Sgt. Major Ed Walker, 17, 3405 Browning, has been presented with a book and a wrist-watch for winning last year's Lord Strathcona shoot and the Youth of Empire shoot.

PPCLI Cadet Corps will hold two days of fieldcraft and manoeuvres at Albert Head April 25 and 26, it was announced today.

About 60 cadets will participate.

Sudden population increase for Metchosin district took place today when Holland America Lines ship Dongedyk docked at Ogden Point and the DeGroot family prepared to disembark.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. DeGroot and eight children (pictured above) are here from Baren, Netherlands, to begin a new life in Canada.

Mr. DeGroot, 42, intends to start a trucking business. His wife is 38, and they are both immensely proud and happy with their big healthy, and bright family.

They have purchased a home in the Metchosin district. Most of the children have a fair knowledge of English, and all will attend school here.

The DeGroot family, reading from the eldest to the youngest: Elise, 15; Jack, 14; Hubert, 12; Monica, 11; Frank, 10; Teresa, 7; Willie, 6; and Margot, 4.

Holland America Line agent in Victoria, which made arrangements for the mass immigration, is George Paulin Ltd.

Broken Back Death Cause In Plunge

Death in hospital Tuesday of a Victoria man who fell from his second-storey room March 7 was due to a fractured vertebrae, an autopsy showed.

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart, set Friday at 10 a.m. for an inquest at Sands Funeral Home.

George Brabant, 37, was found unconscious on the ground outside his room at Selkirk Lodge, 819 Fort, where according to police there had been considerable drinking that day.

Jubilee Hospital said Brabant died at 3.05 p.m.

Trustee Kenneth Leeming has been appointed by Greater Victoria school board to a four-year term starting June 1 as member of the Victoria College Council.

He succeeds the late W. P. Jeune.

The Victoria Electrical Association will meet Monday, March 23, at 8 p.m., in the B.C. Electric conference room "to hear a report on the recent Electrical Contractors' Association of B.C. meeting in Vancouver."

A new fire engine for the department of transport at Patricia Bay Airport arrived here today aboard the Holland America Line's freighter Dongedyk.

The eight-ton machine was built by the Pyrene Co. of England.

INCOME TAX TIPS

Now . . . About Those Dependents

(This is the seventh of a series on how to make out your income tax returns and get refunds and best possible concessions. It is prepared by Gordon A. Green, partner in the firm of Bailey Monteth Holmes & Co., chartered accountants, in collaboration with income tax officials. It will continue daily.)

By GORDON A. GREEN

Let's discuss single taxpayers who are in the position of supporting other people.

Under certain circumstances, these taxpayers can claim $1,000 exemption for such dependents.

To be eligible you must be single, divorced, legally separated or a widow or widower in 1958, and have supported a wholly dependent child under the age of 21 or a child of any age if the child is infirm or in full-time attendance at a school or university.

You may also claim this exemption if you have supported a wholly dependent person related by blood, marriage, or adoption in a dwelling maintained by you, or if you, jointly with one or more other persons, supported a wholly dependent relative in a dwelling maintained by you and such other persons.

ONLY ONE

In this last case, however, only one person can claim this exemption for the same dependent or in respect to the same dwelling and you must decide which of you shall make the claim.

You must provide all the information requested on the tax return with respect to a dependent in the above category. This is very important.

You cannot, of course, make the above claim if you are classified as single for taxation purposes because your spouse earned over $1,250 in the year.

Some taxpayers wrongly interpret the personal exemptions section of the tax return in this regard.

Tough Fisherman Survives Two Hours in Numbing Sea

Up-Island Fatality Probed

A 32-hour struggle for an Alberni man's life came to an end early today in Nanaimo General Hospital when Ernest Netzer, 24, of 515 Alwyn Street, died from head injuries received in a motorcycle accident Monday night.

The victim was catapulted 20 feet from his machine after he lost control at Craig's Crossing, on the Island Highway, five miles south of Parksville.

A passing motorist found Netzer's crumpled bike in a ditch, and the injured man some distance away. It was pointed out by RCMP that the victim had not been wearing a crash helmet.

An Austrian, who came to Canada in 1952, Netzer was said by a friend to have been a keen motorcycle fan who spent much of his time on his German-made machine. He was single, and worked for MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. as a lumber carrier operator. Inquiry into the death will be held at Westwood Funeral Chapel at Nanaimo tonight.

STEWART SMITH

City Student Wins Bursary Worth $2,000

A. J. Stewart Smith, one of Victoria's top students and scholarship winners, has been awarded a $2,000 National Research Council bursary.

He will be graduated from the University of B.C. this spring, and will spend the summer at the Pacific Naval Laboratory. In the fall he will return to UBC to start work on his master's degree.

The bulk of the bursary—$1,200—is designated to assist him in his 1959-60 scholastic term, but the balance of $800 can be used either this summer or next summer if he is to spend the time working toward his higher degree.

Ultimately he hopes to achieve a Ph.D. degree in physics.

COMPETITIVE

According to Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of the UBC physics department, the NRC bursaries are highly competitive, and are designed to assist students interested in working straight through to their higher degrees.

Mr. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Smith, 1255 Oscar, won the Governor-General's medal for B.C. on leaving Victoria High School, topped his first two years at Victoria College, won the Burbridge scholarship at UBC for physics and mathematics students, and the Chris Spencer Foundation scholarship.

Victoria Cadet Going to Bisley

Staff Sergeant Pat Barclay, 16, PPCLI Cadet Corps, 2981 Foul Bay Road, will attend the Bisley shoot this year after placing among the 10 best cadet corps shots in Canada. He has been a corps member three years.

In the 1958 shoot at Connaught Ranges, near Ottawa, S/S Barclay placed among the top 10 in Canada-wide

Struggles To Shore Collapses

A rugged constitution and a strong will to live saved a Victoria fisherman who spent over two hours in 39-degree water Tuesday after his small boat swamped near Discovery Island.

George Wells, 3830 Palo Alto, was handling for cod from a 12-foot outboard when a sudden series of waves swamped him at 10.30 a.m.

"I had a load of cod in the forward part of the boat," Mr. Wells, who fishes commercially, said Tuesday night.

"The sea began to make up, and the wind was blowing strongly."

"I was in the gap between Chatham and Discovery Islands, near Alpha Island, headed into the wind."

"The boat was down by the head, due to the weight of fish, and I wanted to get up forward, to shift some of the cod back. But wind and spray kept blowing back at me."

'Saw Wave Coming'

"I saw a wave coming, and turned my back. I didn't realize it was such a big wave. It nearly filled the boat."

"It was followed by three more waves, bang, bang, bang. Before I knew it, only the bow of the boat was out of the water, and I was in it."

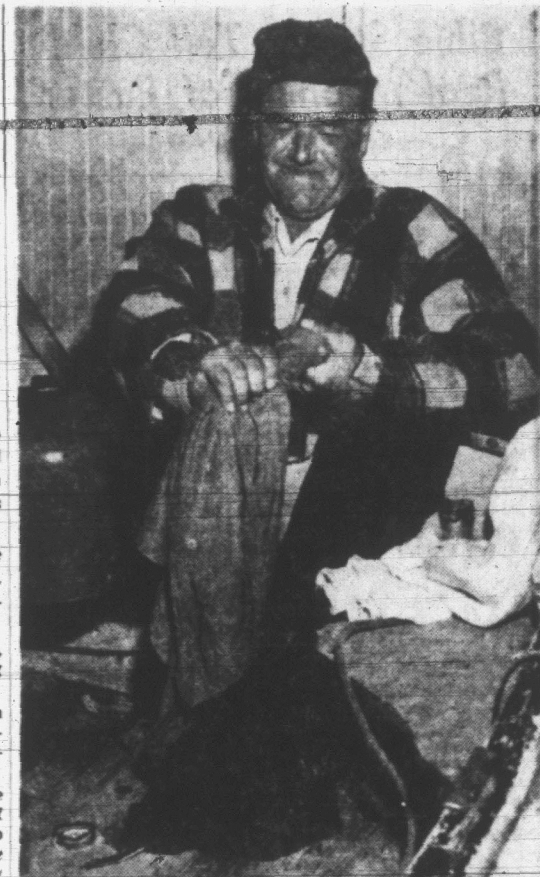

"My life jacket was in the bow of the boat, and I couldn't reach it. I had on a heavy windbreaker and rubber boots. I went under a couple of times. Then the fuel tank for the outboard drifted nearby and I was able to grab it."

Reached Bow

"Clinging to the gas can, I managed to reach the bow of the boat, which was barely above the surface. There was a pocket of air right in the forepeak, keeping it up. But it began to bubble out."

"I had to go under the water and try to lift the bow up so more air would get in. I must have gone down, oh, ten or twelve times, doing this."

"The boat and I were drifting toward a reef near Discovery Island. The reef was sticking a few inches above water.

"I left the boat and reached the reef, where I hung on. I had managed to get my rubber boots off so I could swim better."

"I clung to the reef while the tide ran out. It must have been more than an hour before the tide went out enough so I could walk and crawl to shore."

"My feet were so numb, I didn't even feel the rocks cutting them."

"While I was clinging to the reef, an RCMP patrol boat went by, but he was too far away to see me."

'I Collapsed'

"When I got to the shoreline, I collapsed. I could not drag my numbed feet out of the water."

"Finally I got enough strength back to get to my knees, and finally my feet."

"I staggered along a trail to the home of Capt. E. G. Beaumont on Discovery Island."

"Capt. Beaumont was all kindness. He took me in, gave me dry clothing, and filled me up with hot soup."

"I think it was about 1 p.m. by the time I reached his home."

After Mr. Wells was "thawed out," Capt. Beaumont took him in his own boat, and towed him in the swamped craft.

It was hauled out and towed to the Royal Victoria Yacht Club. Capt. Beaumont also took Mr. Wells ashore, and the fisherman was able to drive his truck home.

Late Tuesday, Mr. Wells was still showing effects of his exposure to the icy water.

But he's going back to fishing.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Regarding the World's Amateur Hockey Tournament now underway, do these players receive specified wages? —W.W.

A.—Regarding Russia's players, all our information is that they are, in fact, subsidized by the state. In Canada, meaning of the term "amateur" is always being misused. Players in amateur senior leagues such as the Okanagan and Western International Leagues DO receive pay. It is no secret. Even many of Canada's junior teams pay their (under 20) players. Bona fide amateurs in Canada today are players in minor house leagues, such as the Victoria Commercial League.

Canada's players are perhaps not paid wages, in the strictest sense of the word. Instead, the Belleville, Ont., club "contributes" expenses to offset any "wages" its players may lose while away from their jobs.

Plain truth is that today there is no amateur player in hockey on or above the senior level.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

Langford Pair Draw Outsider in 'Irish'

A Langford man and his wife were identified today as the final holders in this area of a ticket drawn on a horse in the Irish Sweepstakes based on the Grand National.

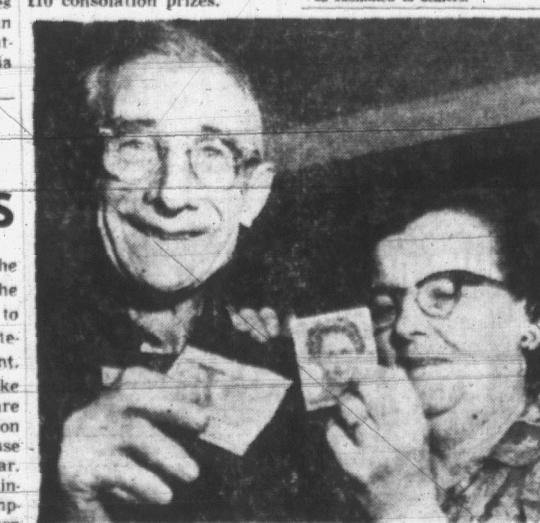

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Duncan, 2838 Bryn Mawr, under the nom de plume "Dreamer," drew Solr, an outsider. But Mrs. Duncan is going to dream, just the same.

"If we win, we're going on a trip," she said today. "We've been married for 39 years, and haven't yet had a honeymoon."

Eight other tickets on horses in the steeplechase to be run over Aintree's turf course Saturday are held in the Victoria area.

One ticket on Mr. Gay (22-1) is shared by David Kenny and W. O. (Ollie) Corbett. Other holders and horses drawn: Lt. Irwin Stutt, Top Twenty (40-1); LS W. L. McNaughton, Mainstown (40-1); David Anderson, Green Drill (22-1); June Houghland, Royal Tournament (unquoted); Mary Vezza, Done Up (100-9); S. J. Thomson, Done Up, and L. H. Lunn, Armorial III (unquoted).

A further draw today will determine 2,500 winners of £100 prizes and 500 winners of £10 consolation prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Duncan . . . honeymoon soon.

WEST MUST HAVE UNITY MACMILLAN DECLARES

CANADA HIKES WHEAT ACREAGE

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian farmers intend to push their wheat acreage this year to 22,744,000 acres, up nine per cent from last year's 20,899,100, the bureau of statistics reported today. This would be the highest wheat acreage since 1956.

FINAL BULLETINS

Manitoba Starts Flood Control Plan

WINNIPEG (CP)—An immediate start on an $85,000,000 flood control program for southern Manitoba, with the federal government being asked to foot at least three-quarters of the bill, was outlined today by Premier Duff Roblin.

Mr. Roblin told the legislature the program would include a 32-mile floodway to carry excess water of the Red River around the Winnipeg area.

Lady Shaughnessy Charge Dropped

MONTREAL (UPI)—A charge against Lady Shaughnessy resulting from an unpaid taxi bill was dismissed today and decision on another charge against Lord Shaughnessy was postponed.

Judge Pascal Lachapelle dismissed a "refusing to move" charge against Lady Shaughnessy when the couple appeared in Magistrate Court, but judgment against her husband involving the $1.35 taxi bill was delayed without explanation from the court.

Dulles' Cancer Treatment Completed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department announced today that X-ray treatments on cancer-stricken Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "have now been completed."

He is planning to leave soon for a recuperative rest "at a place to be decided."

Rocket Richard Skating Again Soon

MONTREAL (CP)—Maurice (Rocket) Richard was given the medical okay today and plans to start skating Sunday or sooner.

There was no immediate indication as to when the Rocket can join his Montreal Canadiens teammates but it is hoped he can get back some time during the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Court Ruling On Injunction Still Awaited

VANCOUVER (CP)—No decision had been handed down by noon today on Tuesday's Supreme Court hearing of a dispute between the British Columbia government and its civil servants over picketing rights.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan said late this morning he was still working on his judgment.

He heard more than three hours of argument Tuesday on an ex parte injunction obtained by the government Friday to restrain the civil servants from picketing government buildings.

The B.C. Government Employees' Association is applying to have the injunction set aside.

Mr. Justice Ruttan would give no indication of when he might hand down his decision, which will decide the next moves in a drawn-out dispute between the government and the civil servants over collective bargaining rights. The decision had been expected some time today.

Gov't Accused of 'Feudal Tactics'

Mr. Dohm, accused the government of "feudalistic" tactics in the dispute.

Counsel for the government countered with a charge that the strike last Friday was illegal.

Mr. Dohm said: "Obtaining a blanket order merely brings about a method of subjugating the government employees... It goes back to feudalistic days."

He contended continuation of the injunction would "do irreparable harm to the association because it removes their only economic arm to show their strength."

Mr. Dohm described the interim injunction as "an extraordinary remedy." He listed three preliminary objections:

The writ for the injunction was issued March 12, the day before the work stoppage.

The writ disclosed no cause of action.

If there was no issue to be tried, the injunction should not be continued.

He said the writ could not have disclosed any cause of action on March 12 because there was no cause of action then.

IWA Office Wrecked By Axe Men

Guards Escape Through Back Door

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP)—An unidentified group of men wrecked the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) office at nearby Bishop's Falls early today in the latest incident in an IWA strike against the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company.

Five IWA men, posted in the office as guards, escaped through the back door when the raiders began hacking through the front door with axes. There were no injuries.

The IWA men said the raiders arrived in two cars and a van. The number in the group was estimated at about 20.

They chopped out the windows in the one-storey wooden office buildings, hacked at the outer walls and splintered the front door. A typewriter in the office was smashed by an axe.

RAIDER RECOGNIZED

An IWA man said he recognized one of the raiders as a Grand Falls resident.

The IWA office was first moved to nearby Badger after the windows of the office here were smashed by a crowd escorting the body of Constable William Moss, who was killed in a fight between police and loggers. The office was moved to Bishop's Falls Tuesday.

Today's violence shattered an uneasy calm. The IWA men said they received several anonymous threatening telephone calls Tuesday night. They were set to guard the office to prevent damage, but fled when they realized they were outnumbered.

Bishop's Falls, a town of about 2,500, ten miles from here, is regarded as a stronghold by the IWA. About half the work force are loggers, the other railway employees who support the IWA.

RCMP launched a hunt for the raiders.

The IWA says it is distributing relief cheques for $30 monthly plus grocery vouchers to 1,100 striking loggers in central Newfoundland. The union had 1,200 members when it struck for higher pay and shorter hours Dec. 31.

The union is also distributing them to 1,400 loggers with Bowater's Pulp and Paper Mills in western Newfoundland.

The vouchers provide $5 worth of food weekly for each logger, another $5 worth for wives and $2 worth for each child.

ONTARIO'S DRIVING LAW RULED VALID

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's careless driving law was upheld today by the Ontario Court of Appeal.

A 3-to-2 decision quashed an Ontario Supreme Court judgment of last Dec. 3 that the careless driving section of the provincial Highway Traffic Act infringed on federal rights.

The appeal was launched by the attorney-general's department after Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Supreme Court handed down a written judgment which found the careless driving law invalid.

BRITAIN FINDS NEW WEAPON

Elvis Is for the Birds

LONDON (UPI)—Elvis Presley's singing is enough to drive any seagull to distraction, the ministry of supply reported today.

In fact, it has become the number one weapon in the ministry's drive to get rid of flying hazard at Staines, near London airport.

A ministry spokesman said it found out about Elvis' effect on seagulls when it sent one of its men to Holland to record the cry of a gull in distress. He took a tape recorder, which had been used to record a children's Christmas party at his home. One of Elvis' records had been a highlight of the party.

When Elvis' voice unexpectedly popped out of the loud-speaker, the gulls took off in a flurry and weren't seen again for 24 hours.

I s'pose stray dogs in Oak Bay are taken t' th' pound sterling.

With th' injunction on, th' civil servants' w'd hev bin ticketed if they'd picketed.

Oak Bay today is in a dog dilemma. The SPCA, which acts as poundkeeper for the municipality, has taken a chunk out of the dog population.

Emergency Landing

GANDER, Nfld. (UPI)—A four-engine Britannia airliner carrying former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee and 65 other passengers, was forced to make an emergency landing today when engine trouble developed during its New York-London flight.

Dogs in Oak Bay have traditionally enjoyed a peace and quiet more in keeping with life on a rambling estate. But goings-on of the municipal council to "do something" about dogs chasing cars and cavorting through gardens has brought stricter enforcement of the dog bylaw.

Council wrote the SPCA "strongly" recommending that the society lay charges against owners of dogs who allow their pests "to contravene the regulations of the present by-law."

If these charges are laid, the letter said, it would "tend" to reduce the nuisance of dogs baying around boulevards.

Up to 10 a.m. today, seven dog owners had received police summonses. It could cost them a $2.50 fine.

Ottawa Briefed On Moscow Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan today conveyed his "message from Moscow" to the Canadian cabinet.

After morning talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker, he met cabinet members at a noon session and briefed them on his 10-day visit to Russia.

Mr. Macmillan arrived this morning in an Ottawa subdued by the sudden death Tuesday of External Affairs Minister Smith.

At Uplands Airport, the visiting British leader told reporters he thinks it is generally accepted now that East-West negotiations on Germany must start this summer.

PM ORDERED TO SLOW DOWN PAPER CLAIMS

TORONTO (UPI)—The Toronto Star said today Prime Minister John Diefenbaker has been ordered to slow down following the death of External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith Tuesday.

The Toronto Telegram said reports of Diefenbaker's having to slacken his pace were denied by the prime minister's office. It said his physician merely suggested he take the afternoon off because he appeared so broken up over Mr. Smith's death.

office. It was 10 above with bright sunshine.

WOMAN WAVES SCARF

In the lobby of the centre block, a woman waved a scarf at Mr. Macmillan hoping the descendant of a Scottish crofter from the Isle of Arran would recognize it as a Ross tartan.

Mr. Macmillan said when he heard of Mr. Smith's death he suggested to Mr. Diefenbaker that the Ottawa visit should be postponed but the Canadian prime minister had thought otherwise and "I'm sure he was right."

There was a "serious purpose" underlying the visit in view of the tension caused by the Berlin crisis.

His first words to Mr. Diefenbaker as he came down the gangway from the aircraft were: "Terrible hour to visit you, isn't it?"

GOING TO WASHINGTON
Mr. Macmillan, heading a 28-member British party, goes to Washington Thursday. This is his third North American visit in 17 months.

The British leader, wearing a dark blue gabardine coat, commented on the "typically" cold Canadian weather as he went to the Prime Minister's

(See Page 3)

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith will be buried in his native Nova Scotia.

A state funeral for the 62-year-old diplomat and former University of Toronto president, who collapsed and died Tuesday, will be held Thursday.

The service will be at Chalmers United Church here at 4 p.m. EST (1 p.m. PST). The body will be flown to Windsor, N.S., for burial Friday.

Meanwhile, coroner Dr. Thomas Kendall said, Mr. Smith died of "natural causes" following a stroke.

"He was suffering from high blood pressure and apparently was working under very high stress and strain."

Huge U.S. Contract To Buy Canadian Gas

DETROIT (AP)—Signing of a contract which will link Michigan Consolidated Gas Company with the vast new gas fields of Western Canada and provide natural gas for upper Michigan was announced today by Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company.

The huge program of pipeline construction and expansion will cost two pipeline companies approximately $95,000,000. About $7,500,000 will be spent by Michigan Wisconsin to construct natural gas pipelines in the upper peninsula of Michigan and large additional sums will be required for the building of gas distribution systems. Mining experts foresee natural gas as a keystone for expansion of the iron ore industry in the upper peninsula.

The contract announced today provides for the initial importation of approximately 200,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily from Canada by Midwestern Gas Transmission Company and the sale of 158,000,000 cubic feet a day of this gas to Michigan Wisconsin. Midwestern will purchase the gas from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., which operates a pipeline from Alberta to Eastern Canada.

MACMILLAN'S STOCK SOARING

'A Man at Peace With Himself'

By ALAN HARVEY
OTTAWA (CP)—They called him the least-liked prime minister since Neville Chamberlain. He was too aloof, too aristocratic.

When he spoke the common tongue—"there ain't gonna be no war"—the effect was embarrassing. It was like a dramatic actor descending to smut.

Mr. Macmillan's recent 10-

day journey to Russia brought praise from all Canadian political parties. CCF spokesman H. W. Herridge said the British leader was "just the right type of personality" to deal with Russia's Nikita Khrushchev.

In what is likely to be a British election year, Mr. Macmillan's stock has soared from the period early in 1958 when newspapers compared him unfavorably with Chamberlain and opinion polls accorded scant support for the new Conservative leader.

Then, a political opponent described Mr. Macmillan as a "man of mystery," perpetually wearing a mask in public life.

What is he really like, this tall, erect man with the slightly tired expression, the quizzical, hooded eyes and large moustache?

Among colleagues, a common impression is of a man at peace with himself, with a settled philosophy based on deep reading and a sense of history.

There is a story that he read a pocket volume of Homer while lying in No Man's Land after being wounded in the First World War.

His celebrated "unflappability," or reluctance to get excited about day-to-day crises, springs from this detachment.

There is a sign in Downing Street saying "cool, calm deliberation—untangles all knots". His wife, Lady Dorothy Macmillan, says that when things get tough the Prime Minister opens a book of Roman or Greek history.

After resignations from his cabinet early last year, he flew off on a world tour, referring calmly to "temporary local difficulties".

Now he is in North America on the last leg of journeys to co-ordinate Allied policy on Germany.

Sixteen days ago, 800,000 people lined the streets of Leningrad to see the British Prime Minister in his rented fur hat. Today a few hundred, at most, would catch a glimpse of him in Ottawa.

It can be assumed that Mr. Macmillan, unflappable as ever, won't miss the crowds.
